Bottomland crops survive dry spell

I-55 interchange proposal revived

A proposal for an interchange on Interstate 55 between Sikeston and Benton has been revived, and the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce is pushing for the interchange to be located near the north city limits at Tanner Road.

District 10 Highway Department engineer Lionel Murray said the interchange has been proposed two or three times previously, and each time the proposal died.

The stretch between Sikeston and Benton is reportedly one of the longest in the state without an interchange. If a northbound motorist misses the Sikeston exit at Highway 62 East, he has to drive to Benton to turn around.

Murray said his office has submitted three locations for an interchange, one at Route U near Blodgett, one at Route H, where an overpass already exits, and one at Tanner Road.

Murray said the Route H location would probably be the least expensive because of the existing overpass.

However, from Sikeston's standpoint, the Tanner Road location would be the best, he said, and it is the Tanner Road location the Chamber of Commerce is pushing for.

Charles Mitchell, a Sikeston realtor responsible for reviving the project, said the interchange is needed to alleviate the heavy traffic on Malone Avenue, which has now reached 25,000 cars a day, according to a recent count.

A reduction in traffic could cut the number of accidents on Malone Avenue, he said.

The intercahnge would help people living on the north end of town who now drive to Benton to get on I-55 to avoid the traffic on Malone Avenue.

The interchange would also open a large area north of Sikeston and Miner to residential and industrial development.

An interchange would benefit the whole Sikeston-miner area, Mitchell said.

The final location, if approved, will be determined by a benefit- cost ratio, Murray said.

Final approval for the overpass, if it involves federal funds, must come from the federal government, and Murray said he thought it would take considerable convincing to get Washington to approve the project.

Those pushing for the interchange are aware of the government's reluctance to approve the intercahnge and are busy lining up considerable support fo the project.

Mitchell said letters of support are being requested from the Scott County Court, the county special road district, the Sikeston City Council and Miner Board of Trustees, Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, Sikeston R-6 School District Board of Education and other interested parties.

Mitchell said he has already received letters of support from 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison and Sen. Stuart Symington. He said he is certain Sen. Thomas Eagleton will also endorse the project.

The project is being coordinated through the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce which last week passed a resolution supporting the project.

Bill Wellborn, the chamber's executive vice president, said everyone interested in the project should let the state highway commission know their views.

2 killed, 19 hurt in SeMo traffic

A young Catron bicyclist and a Doniphan man were killed in area traffic accidents Sunday to bring the number of persons killed in Southeast Missouri to 62 so far this year, compared with 71 traffic deaths reported at this same time last year.

The highway patrol reported 19 persons were injured including two Sikeston residents in nine other traffic accidents over the weekend.

Melvin Johnson, 13, was killed at 10:20 a.m. three-tenths of a mile west of Catron on Route D when his bicycle was struck by a car driven by Anna Hight, 56, of Malden.

The accident occurred when the youth, riding in the middle of the road, glanced back at the car and then drove to the left lane. Mrs. Hight, in an attempt to avoid hitting the bicycle, also drove into the left lane and struck the bicycle. The boy's body was thrown 80 feet from the point of impact.

New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton ruled the accident unavoidable.

He was born May 30, 1961 in Indianola, Miss. to Rosetta Pratcher of Catron and Willie D. Johnson of Memphis, Tenn.

Other survivors include six brothers, Willie D. Johnson Jr., Hubert Lee Pratcher, Harvey Lee Pratcher, Michael Lee Pratcher, Jamie Lee Pratcher and Jackie Aaron Lee Pratcher of the home; one sister, Cynthia Short of Indianola; stepfather, Aaron Pratcher; Maternal grandfather, Jerry D. Short of Chicago, Ill.; maternal grandmother, Pankie Short of Indianola and paternal grandmother, Lee Johnson of Indianola.

Melvin Johnson

Friends may call at Ponder Funeral Home in Lilbourn from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Catron Methodist Church.

Burial will be in Simmons Park Cemetery at Catron.

Donald Ray Emmons, 22, of Doniphan Route Two, was dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital following a one- car accident at 1 a.m. Sunday three miles north of Doniphan on Route Y.

Passengers Dennis Ray Trotter, 22, and Danny Trotter, 4, of Doniphan received minor injuries and were taken to Doctors Hospital.

A patrol spokesman said Emmons' southbound car ran off the road on a curve and overturned.

Four persons received minor injuries at 2:30 a.m. Saturday in Marston when Donna J. Wren, 14, of Marston lost control of her eastbound car, which ran off the road and struck a tree.

Miss Wren and passengers Debbie Ann Edgin, 12, of Marson, Vivian Lawrence, 17, of Parma and Sandra Dodson, 17, of Marston were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

An accident at 1:15 a.m. on Saturday on Highway 51 near the Mississippi River Bridge, two miles south of Chester, Ill., resulted in two injuries.

Two Phoenix, Ill. residents received minor injuries at 11:50 p.m. Saturday two miles south of Steele on Highway 61 when their car ran off the right side of the road and overturned in a ditch.

Roy Davis, 21, driver of the car, and a passenger, Patricia Madden, 19, were taken to Chicasawba Hospital in Blytheville, Ark.

Floyd Belcher, 32, of St. Louis was seriously injured at 1:45 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Highways 67 and 34 four miles north of Greenville.

Belcher was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Two persons were injured at 12:02 p.m. Sunday 15

Wade Hatcher

Grocery store owner dies of heart attack

Vernon Wade Hatcher, 48, of 328 Helen St., owner and operator of Wade's Food Mart at 800 Warner St., died at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was taken after suffering an apparent heart attack at his home.

Born April 15, 1926 at Marmaduke, Ark., he was the son of Mrs. Lorene Pickins Thompson of Fresno, Calif., and the late Joe Hatcher.

Hatcher had been in the meat and grocery business for 24 years and was a meat department manager for Liberty Super Market in Sikeston for 10 years.

He was a charter member of Sikeston Elks Lodge No. 2319.

On Sept. 4, 1960, he married Elva Justice Hatcher, who survives.

The Hatchers had lived in Sikeston since moving in October 1961 from Kennett.

In addition to his mother and widow, he is survived by two sons, Stephen Hatcher of the home and Kenny Hatcher of Grover City, Calif.; two daughters, Darleen Hatcher of the home and Mrs. Peggy Sisk of Visalia, Calif.; three brothers, O.V. Hatcher of Olympia, Wash., Bill Hatcher of Fresno, Calif., and Robert Hatcher of Tenino, Wash.; one sister, Mrs. Wilma Andrews of Chowchilla, Calif.; and three grandsons.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Welsh Funeral Home, where funeral arrangments are incomplete.

Rep. Fred Copeland seeks renomination

NEW MADRID — State Rep. Fred E. "Gene" Copeland of New Madrid announces his candidacy for renomination in the Aug. 6 Democratic primary election.

Copeland had served in the Missouri House of Representatives since 1960.

He has served on several key committees including Constitutional Amendments, Economics, Miscellaneous Resolutions and, during the recent 77 General Assembly, Copeland served on the Appropriations Committee and was chairman of several Appropriations subcommittees, such as agriculture and studies pertaining to the universities.

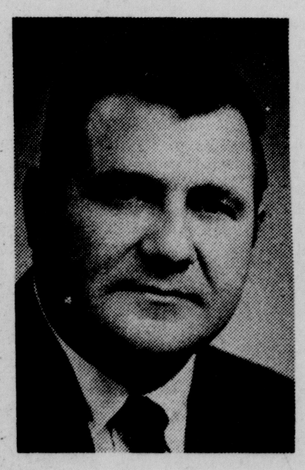
He also has served several terms as chairman of the Committee on Banks and Financial Institutions. As chairman of this committee, Copeland was active in passing a bill restraining large holding companies in the state's banking industries while still allowing economic growth in that field.

During the 77th General Assembly, Copeland was one of the original sponsors of campaign reform laws. Another House bill which Copeland sponsored would provide special educational programs in all school districts for developmentally handicapped and gifted children.

A measure to invest funds from old age and survivors insurance contributions in accounts for not more than 90 days with the interest paid into general revenue by the state treasurer also was sponsored by Copeland.

Other bills introduced by Copeland included HB 1112 to provide a retirement or savings plan for public employes.

House Bill 1517 was one of Copeland's top priority concerns. It provided that all commercial vehicles and trailers be registered either on a calendar year basis or on a pro-rated basis. This legislation was introduced to counteract a ruling by the attorney general which penalized farm vehicle owners who operated seasonal equipment. The Copeland bill would have provided quarterly licensing which had been permitted previous to the opinion issued by the attorney general.



Fred 'Gene' Copeland

Copeland stated, "With the tight schedule I attempted to introduce only legislation which would provide a definite service or give better benefits to the people of Missouri. I have always been especially interested in legislation which will improve the areas of mental health and aging. I co-sponsored several such bills."

Copeland also was co-sponsor of a measure to eliminate sales tax on interest or finance charges which would have been a tax on a tax.

Rep. Copeland will be running for his eighth term from the 161st District, which includes New Madrid County and parts of Dunklin and Mississippi counties.

Thieves busy again

Four thefts were reported to police over the weekend, including two thefts at the Jaycee Swimming Pool on Taylor Street.

Two coin machines were broken open at the pool Friday night or Saturday morning. Police said a candy machine and a pinball machine were broken. Unsuccessful attempts were made to open two other machines.

Police said the amount of money taken was not determined.

Mike Evans, 101 Adams St., told police that $5.90 was taken from his clothing basket while he was swimming at the pool.

Two tires valued at $35 each were taken from a truck parked at Riley Sunoco Service Station, 2111 E. Malone Ave., between 11 p.m. Saturday and 10:17 a.m. Sunday.

A roll of nickles was taken from the East Shell station, 1101 E. Malone Ave., between 10 p.m. Friday and 6:50 a.m. Saturday. Police said the thieves apparently got into the building by breaking glass in a door. The roll of nickles was valued at $2.

Police said an echo chamber reported stolen Friday by Lynn Casey, 1811 Indiana St., had only been borrowed by a friend.

City accident hurts 5

Five persons were injured in a two- car accident at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the corner of East Malone Avenue and Mitchell Street.

Police said a car driven byHerbert Lynn Hasty, 18, of Bertrand Route One was westbound on Malone Avenue and attempted a left turn at A & W Root Beer Drive In, 1817 E. Malone, and was struck in the side by a car driven east by Louis Van Montjoy, 21, of 1108 Maude St.

Police said Hasty apparently could not see the Mongjoy car because a truck blocked his view.

Treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital were Montjoy, who received multiple bruises, and a passenger in his car, Russell Montjoy, 18, of 1108 Maude St., cuts, bruises and scratches.

Injured in the Hasty car were Davide Williams, 17, of 1502 Washington St., bruises; Steve Dalton 17, of 111 Second St., acute neck pain; and Gerald Dalton, 20, 111 Second St., bruises.

Police said no arrests were made.

5 arrested in Hayti robbery

Five Milwaukee, Wis., residents were arrested by highway patrol officers Sunday at the Interstate 55 - Highway 60 interchange a short time after a group matching their description robbed a Hayti service station.

The five allegedly robbed Whitener's Phillips 66 Service Station of an undetermined amount of cash at gunpoint shortly before 9 a.m. Sunday. They were arrested at 9:39 a.m. by Trooper Jerry Crismon and Cpl. Mendell Clark.

They reportedly had $200 in their possession but no gun. They were taken to the Sikeston city jail, then turned over to Pemiscot County authorities.

The five were identified as Robert Lee Bobo Jr., 23, Eleanor Cole, 21, Martha Lee Carr, 24, Earl Lee Cannon, 18, and Clarence Freeland Cannon, 25.

Coroner rules suicide in death of Parma woman

PARMA — The body of Pauline Ruth Baker, 42, of Route One was discovered at 9:30 a.m. Saturday dead of a self- inflicted gunshot wound from a .22- caliber rifle, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser.

Mouser said Mrs. Baker's body was discovered by her husband, Buford Baker, who also found a suicide note. The death was investigated by sheriff's deputies and Stoddard County Coroner Ray Rainey of Dexter, who ruled the death a suicide.

Mrs. Baker was born Feb. 10, 1932 at Parma to Esther Richardson Johnson of Dexter and the late Tom Thorpe.

She was a member of the Blodgett Missionary Baptist Church.

On Dec. 17, 1949, she and Buford "Boots" Baker were married.

In addition to her mother and widower, survivors include one daughter, Pauletta Baker of Parma; one brother, Junior Thorpe of Yazoo City, Miss.; and one sister, Thelma Toombs of Parma.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Watkins and Sons Funeral Home at Dexter with the Rev. Marion Gipson officiating.

Burial will be in Hagy Cemetery at Dexter.

Woman catches prowler

PERKINS — Mrs. Leo Schott surprised a prowler at 10 p.m. when she arrived home and saw him cutting the screen off a window of her home.

The prowler jumped a fence and ran into a soybean field when Mrs. Schott left to get her son-in-law, Charles Foulk, who lives nearby.

Between July 1970 and July 1973 the Federal government paid out more than $56 million to workers in plants affected by import competition. More than half of 13,000 textile workers who applied for assistance had been employed making cotton fabrics and related products.

On he other hand, between 1967 and 1971 U. S. economic aid, including surplus cotton, to Ghana totaled $113 million. AID financed a $1.3 million subloan to a Ghana textile manufacturer to buy American machinery in 1971. That firm was responsible for most of the 2.5 million yards of gray cloth exported to the U. S. from Ghana in 1972. The amount was about equal to the expanded capacity provided by the subloan, the General Accounting Office reported.

When Congress voted an additional $36.5 million last year to help migrants leave the Soviet Union, provide care for them in facilities in Vienna and transportation to and resettlement costs in Israel, the Senate also voted to increase to $36.5 million the appropriation to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, which is primarily for the benefit of Palestinian Arab refugees. Now, American taxpayers are waiting for another "bill" which will be paid after Henry Kissinger's settlement of peace in the Middle East.

Since banks today sort checks by computer, it's easier now for a forgery to slip through unnoticed. So, if you lose your checkbook, or it is stolen, notify your bank at once and ask that every check written on your account be carefully inspected by a clerk. The bank may advise you to use another signature -- such as J. S. Smith rather than John S. Smith -- or may want to give you a new code number for your checks. In any case, the bank is responsible for any checks it charges to you that you didn't authorize.

'OTHER WAYS' TO DECEIVE

James St. Clair and other spokesmen for President Nixon seek to explain away embarrassing quotations from the presidential tapes by saying the President was acting as "devil's advocate" — exploring in words actions he rejected.

There is a good deal of scenario- spinning in the tapes, much considering of alternatives. But the hush money was paid, and the cover-up went on, the President's men retreating from one untenable position to another to cover up what remained. So this St. Clair argument is not convicing.

The choice of actions President Nixon considered in private with his confidential staff ran the gamut only from A to C — from cover-up to "partial hang-out" — never to the full disclosure he was always talking about in public.

Thus on Mar. 22, 1973, the day the President said his aides should "stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else" if called before the Senate Watergate Committee, President Nixon also said (as St. Clair noted), "on the other hand, uh, uh, I would prefer, as I said to you, that you do it the other way."

The "other way" he was talking about was to get the Senate committee to accept a written report from John Dean in place of calling presidential aides to testify. Dean's report was to give the apperance of being complete and cooperative, but as the President told Dean Mar. 17, "make it very incomplete. See, that is what I mean."

President Nixon preferred this "other way," but he soon knew he could not get the Senate committee to accept it.

There was still another "other way" which H. R. Haldeman suggested Mar. 27, 1973, in a meeting with the President, John Ehrlichman and Ronald Ziegler. Haldeman was looking ahead gloomily to reputations ruined by public charges and possible criminal trials.

"The people who are in charge and are involved are entitled to fair treatment," Haldeman said, and he suggested creating a super panel which would receive confidential information from all the investigative agencies.

Those present in the Executive Office kicked the idea around a bit, but the President thought it was not legal, and they went on to talk of other matters.

Later that same session they returned to the panel idea and talked at length about who should be on it — a mix of legislative - executive - judicial, perhaps, or just two senior judges, or Senators Ervin and Baker of the Watergate Commiteee (among others), or just Judge Sirica alone, or leave it up to the regular grand jury and the courts.

Haldeman: "You can't direct a judge."

President: "No."

The President finally concluded in the end be as bad as the regular courts: "Let's face it. They'll have special prosecutors who will want to make a name for themselves. Everybody wants to make a name for themselves in this (unintelligible). They'll drag it on and on and on ... Let's just say, 'Well, judge, let's go.'"

But first, a presidential television speech to the nation to explain that he wanted to get to the bottom of everything. In practice, the cover-up and stonewalling went on. So another "other way" bit the dust.

WEEKEND MASSACRE

Governor Christopher S. Bond's answer to criticism of his firing of state commission and board members whose terms had not expired and appointing replacements was anything but satisfactory.

The governor, who professes to abhor "politics," has resorted to the most elemental political tactic in calling the critcism "another line of partisan attacks."

And his claim that appointment by him of new boards and commissions was "mandated by the people of Missouri when they voted overwhelmingly for reorganization two years ago" cannot be justified by facts.

Those facts are that apparently no one other than the governor and a few close cohorts knew of Bond's plants to replace commission and board members whose terms had not expired. The legislators who passed the reorganization bill did not know. The fired members did not know.

Had the legislature even had an inkling that Governor Bond planned to flaunt Missouri's time- honored system of staggered term appointments the legislators would have prevented it happening.

Criticism of Bond's action hasn't come, to our knowledge, from people who oppose reorganization. It has come from people who favored reorganization who now fear Bond's action has set back reorganization by what some fear is a power - grab.

We had hoped the action was simply poor judgment of the temper of the people who have seen too much effort in the federal executive branch to seize power -- the action lumped under the catch- all descriptive "Watergate."

Bond's reply indicates he sees no wrong in what he did -- and may still do.

Governor Bond did not help matters when he made these changes in commission and board membership during a long weekend of massive transfers which are a part of reorganization.

He created his own Missouri version of a "Weekend Massacre" to match that of President Nixon's Saturday Night Massacre when he fired Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox and thereby forced the resignation of his attorney general and deputy attorney general.

Governor Bond's has been a fresh, young face. We're afraid he now has egg on that face -- and he put it there himself.

THEY KEEP IT WORKING

With almost monotonous regularity, so- called economic experts give sage advice to consumers on the worth of certain promotion and advertising practices of merchants. In a tweedle- dum, tweedle- dee game of nit-picking considerations, they attempt to balance the advantages and disadvantages of trading at stores that give trading stamps.

In one breath, they state the obvious fact that consumers pay for all forms of promotion. In the next breath, they say something to the effect that sometimes shrewd shoppers, by carefully comparing prices, quality and other factors, can find better deals at stamp - giving establishments -- and vice versa. One and all, they miss the large picture -- the evolution of America's mass production and distribution system which grew on the philosophy of bringing within the reach of everyone the goods and services that only royalty enjoyed in previous eras of human history. This could never have been done except through promotion of new products and services. Advertising and promotion tell people about things and make them want them. When many people want them, they can be produced in volume and sold at prices most people can pay. It is just that simple.

The important fact is that the system works, and fundamentally, advertising and promotion keep it working. Of course, both are an inescapable cost of doing business, but over the long range, they have guaranteed U. S. citizens the biggest consumer bargains in history. Promotion and advertising, functioning in a free market, spell the difference between abundance and the drab austerity of communist China.

GETTING INTO THE "MARKETPLACE OF IDEAS"

Apparently there is going to be no justice for business and for all the good workers who depend upon business for their livelihood, not to mention the necessities of life. If American business collapses by default because of being barred from the "marketplace of ideas," it will be all of us who suffer, including those trying to destroy business and the profit- motive system.

Even if the profit- motive system was as bad as its critics claim, it still remains far better than any other system so far created by human beings. The monopoly TV networks will broadcast far and wide almost any irresponsible attack on our country, our people, our businesses and our essential industries.

The worst unsubstantiated rumors and misinformation by special interest attackers of businesses can be heard beyond the saturation point on the nightly network news, on "documentaries" and on daily and nightly "talk shows."

However, when business, any business, tries to get atoe into the "marketplace of ideas," the door is slammed. Mobil Oil, Gulf, Phillips 66, etc., have tried to get a word in edge wise to help bring a little truth and perspective to the energy problem. The answer usually is: No. The networks largely refuse to recognize or admit to their biased reporting against business; then they refuse business the right even to buy time to correct the record. The public will have to demand fair play for everybody in "the marketplace of ideas," lest we have no marketplace left of any kind. HLH

Washington-Merry-Go-Round
by Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

The Greek Picture

WASHINGTON -- We predicted on May 27 that "the military junta now in power in Greece will be toppled before the end of June." We missed the date by only 23 days.

Our prognostication was based upon the observations of experts inside the State Department, Central Intelligence Agency and Pentagon. A confidential May 1974 report to the North Atlantic Assembly, for example, reviewed the Greek situation and offered this conclusion:

"Many observers predict that the most affected classes, supported by senior military officers shocked by the junta's primitive terror tactics, may move into open revolt soon."

In our May column, we warned that a Greek revolt might bring to power hostile forces who could deny the United States the use of its military and intelligence installations in Greece.

As the dust settles in Athens, however, the situation appears less drastic. The new premier, Constantine Karamanlis, has been a friend of the United States. Still, he isn't likely to forget his years in exile in Paris, struggling to obtain the ear of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Karamanlis and other exiled Greek leaders pleaded in vain for U.S. help in restoring democracy in their homeland. But the Nixon Administration preferred to do business with the military junta. Up until the day before Karamanlis was called to Athens, our sources say, high- level State Department officials snickered at the idea he migh return to power.

Karamanlis' relations with the United States, therefore, probably will be restrained and businesslike. If Washington wants to maintain bases there, our sources say, "they will have to pay for the privilege."

Analysts are still wondering how much power the new civilian government in Greece really has. Some predict that the military will keep a wary eye on events to see that they don't get out of hand.

According to our sources, however, the Karamanlis government won't be hobbled by the military. On the contrary, these sources say that a special court will be convened to try the deposed strongman, Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides, and his band of political primitives.

One of those who will feel the ax, our sources predict, will be the Greek ambassador to Washington, Constantine Panayotakos.

Unfortunately, Kissinger ignored appeals to end U.S. cooperation with the Greek junta. At least one confidential document predicted months ago that such action would bring down the military dictatorship, with the United States getting the credit.

If NATO would withhold its cooperation, suggested the document, "not only will the alliance gain enormously in prestige, but from that time the days of the dictatorial regime will be numbered."

But no one in Washington was listening. Now the United States is blamed by many Greek people for keeping the dictatorship in power.

Footnote: There was rejoicing in Washington as well as Athens upon Constantine Karamanlis' return from exile. For years, a small but determined band of antijunta Greeks has lobbied day and night for the restoration of democracy in their homeland. They include journalist Elias Demetracopoulos, Profs. Ted Coulombis and John Nicolopoulos, parliamentarian John Zighdis and Gen. Orestes Vidalis.

TRANSPORTATION TROUBLES: The taxpayers spend $8.1 billion a year for a Transportation Department that is fragmented, wasteful and often misguided.

This is the confidential conclusion of a consulting firm, McKinsey & Co., which has just produced a detailed report for Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar.

The study cost the taxpayers $365,000, but the money will be well spent if Brinegar implements the hundreds of recommendations.

The Transportation Department was created seven years ago from federal agencies handling highways, airways, railways, subways and their social, environmental and cultural impact. Thus, the department touches part of every American's life.

The McKinsey report, though couched in careful enough language to ensure it won't be blackballed for outspokenness, makes clear that the department needs major reform.

"The principal need (is) to improve the way in which the department is managed overall," the report states. The problems extend from Brinegar's office throughout his sprawling, brawling, bureaucratic empire.

For instance, the department has wasted millions on impractical projects such as a personal kittycar transport system in Morgantown, W. Va., an aircushioned passenger train and a superbus that runs on a magnetic rail. But it has failed to provide a proper mix between air, auto, bus and rail service.

The report attributes this failure to lack of "clear- cut rationale" at the top. "There was no sufficiently disciplined process," states the report, "to enable ... the Office of the Secretary ... to evaluate the programs and decide on further action. There is a growing sense of groups working at cross-purposes."

In its dozens of pages of recommendations, the report lays out a primer for writing memos, coordinating programs, monitoring the activities of the farflung agencies and extricating clear decisions from the present mass of red tape.

Voice of the Campus: Where Have All the Flower Children Gone?

What's happened to the counterculture? Where's the violent university youth of yesterday? The young college men and women, just a few years later, appear decades different. They're doing their thing. But what is it?

Here are some answers from the head of one of the world's most famed universities, young in years, younger in heart, a good friend to have even for those who left the campus in goldfish- eating days. This is written exclusively for this column.

By WILLIAM M. McGILL
President,
Columbia University

NEW YORK -- Perhaps the most powerful form of unrest in America during the middle 1960s was the emergence of the so- called counterculture -- a student- led movement of extraordinary power and attractiveness. It had important symbols and a romantic philosophy that soon spread around the world. It rejected all forms of discipline as manifestations of an authoritarian social order seeking to mold young people for the benefit of a political and military oligarchy, but not for humane purposes.

Rapidly emerging counterculture groups on campus instructed their eager members to reject occupational training, to throw off the yoke of traditional religious beliefs and demanding intellectual pursuits, and to do their own thing.

Many students cast aside their middle- class morality and their motivation to advance themselves within the constraints of the social and economic system which generations of their forebears had labored to perfect. They turned, instead, to a pastoral philosophy with great emphasis on the arts and primitive contact with Oriental thought. They dressed in blue work clothes and wore heavy shoes because they saw themselves as sharing the lot of the poor and the oppressed; all this despite soft hands and plenty of money. Students also developed remarkable forms of obscene speech in an effort to identify with the verbal styles of the urban populace. They experimentsed with drugs, searching for transcendental experiences that would free them from what they felt was a drab and oppressive environment.

The movement and its philosophy were a new form of worship of the great god Pan, expressing a unique modern revulsion for America's devotion to progress based upon educational credentials. Students felt a surge of hostility toward the university because of the latter's role in sustaining what they saw as an inhumane technology by purveying its basic credentials.

The counterculture was in its essence a rejection of the disciplinary demands of advanced education. One of the principal effects of the rapid extension of the expected norm of higher education from undergraduate degrees to graduate study, and ultimately to extensive postdoctoral training, is that it seems to have produced a hitherto unseen extension of the period of adolescence in young people. Modern students in a developed society must continue their studies in a competitive educational environment far beyond what was commonplace only two generations ago. They must pursue fragile occupational goals only dimly visible in the future and requiring repeated exposures to the risk of ultimate failure as each new degree level of higher learning is encountered.

One would then expect to see this rejection in societies where the demands of higher education are especially rigorous and where competition makes educational and occupational success seem difficult for even the best students. Such conditions are most closely met in America, Japan and Western Europe. They are not typically encountered in the developing countries. Hence one fascinating observation made during the last ten years in American universities was that visiting students from Southern Asia, Africa and Latin America were carefully following the study habits and neat styles of dress characteristic of earlier generations of American students, while their American counterparts were going about in long hair and work clothers, preferring guitars to libraries.

The counterculture has seemed recently to undergo a pronounced deflation at Columbia. We do not know why this has happened. We have achieved no basic resolution of the deep problems posed by the increasing rigor of education and the prolongation of adolescence that modern forms of higher education seem to enforce in our country.

We have certainly not been able to curtail or eliminate the pyramiding of courses and degrees with all its emphasis on academic credentials as requirements for occupational entry at the professional and managerial levels. Yet, today the Columbia campus is once more filled with earnest and serious intellectuals seeking admission into medical school, law school, business school, engineering, and journalism. Interest in the traditional graduate academic disciplines has declined recently as declining federal support has made traditional graduate study more costly, and dried up prospects for academic careers. But the drop- out philosophy and the symbolism of the counterculture seem also to have lost the attraction they had for students only a few years ago. That alienation has been replaced by an effort -- so earnest as to be almost deadly -- to conform to the requirements of our society. No one knows what we have done to bring it about.

Perhaps the counterculture was just a student fad, but I am inclined to doubt it. The alienation and hostility I perceived, as I dealt directly with student anger for five long years, was too real, too menacing, to be a trendy pose. Perhaps then it was due to the Vietnam War, but that does not explain the powerful alienation of young people in countries such as modern Japan where politeness in social interchange has reached a level of perfection unmatched elsewhere in the world.

The diminished attractiveness of the counterculture for American students seems to reflect their ambivalence in the face of the ambiguities that must confront students in an advanced society. Counterculture devotees who turned to drugs in search of liberating experiences were destroyed by their liberation and that fact has not been lost upon a new generation of students. Those who went off into communes searching for the humanity and strength which allegiance to the land gives soon found themselves disillusioned by conflicts which have a way of becoming superheated in a cloistered society. They could neither feed themselves nor care for themselves. and in the end they could not get along with one another.

All these stories were brought back to students. It produced first apathy and then a renewed determination to try to find independence through learning and professional training. Now our professional schools are inundated. Literally thousands of our most capable students are being turned away from their hoped- for life's work, inadmissible and frustrated. I repeat, we have solved none of our basic problems.

Our vision of the future of university life in the United States permits no compromise with the standards of academic excellence we have developed since the end of World War II. We have passed beyond the period of bitter unrest in which students demanded that we teach them how to solve our society's social and racial problems without being willing to accept the necessary commitments to academic discipline.

We have learned from the counterculture that universities must never again be used as storage houses for bored young people devoid of interest in the power of discovery and the beauty of scholarship. We must demonstrate to our students and the generations of students who follow them that the things we believe in are worth believing.

Exbitionists need professional help

Dear Ann Landers: A friend and I had a frightening experience yesterday. We hope you will print this letter and tell us if we did the right thing. It might also help others who may find themselves in the same situation.

My girl friend and I are both 16. We were walking along a path near a creek. It was a bright sunny day and no one else was around. A young man in his early 20s, I'd guess, was walking toward us on the same path. As he came nearer we could see he wasn't fully clothed. In fact, he was wearing a raincoat and no trousers. His coat was open and he was intentionally exposing himself.

As he passed us he said nothing-- just kept walking. He then started to follow us and tried to make conversation. My friend decided the best thing to do was tell him off. She told him (in plain language) that he must be some kind of nut, that we weren't interested in peep shows and to stop following us or we could call the police.

He didn't say one word, just walked away, rejected like.

Since there seem to be so many lunatics running loose these days, will you say something in your column about how to deal with these people? If I had been alone that man might have tried to rape me. Am I right? Please comment. -- Scary Scene

Dear S.S.: You're wrong. That man is an exhibitionist. These sick people get their jollies by exposing themselves -- and that's as far as they go. Most exhibitionists are passive, timid, often impotent and actually quite harmless.

They should be reported to the police, however. Hopefully they will be picked up and treated for their psychiatric problem.

P.S.: When a college kid does it on the run it's called "streaking," considered a "harmless fad," even "healthy" -- by some, not me. What a difference the setting makes!

Confidential to Parents of an Only Child Who Is Driving Us Crazy: Sounds like you quit when you were losers. That child needs to be evaluated by a physician. He may be hyperkinetic, and such children frequently are helped by medication -- which in turn helps the parents.

Miss Hobbs and Lindley exchange marriage vows

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lindley

PORTAGEVILLE — Miss Daisy Hobbs and Jimmy Lindley were united in marriage in a late June wedding at St. Eustachius Parish. The Rev. Amel Shibley officiated at the double- ring ceremony.

Large twin stands of yellow and white majestic daisies, white love doves, baby's breath and natural greenery of huck leather and organ fern with yellow and mint green satin ribbons adorned the altar.

Yellow and white daisies pompoms with baby's breath and leather fern were at St. Joseph's altar.

Two banners, one on each side of the altar, were made of mint green brocade with yellow and white daisies. One was inscribed "Make each day a yes day",and the other read "One God, one world, one life and one love".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stowell G. Hobbs of Portageville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lindley of Parma.

Pews were marked with candles, enclosed in glass and were accented with white satin bows. Parents' pews were marked with white satin bows.

Before the mass, Mrs. Charles Mitchell of Sikeston, aunt of the bride, sang "Because" and during the mass, she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. J. E. Childress of Sikeston was organist and played "A Time For Us", "More", "Serenade From the Student Prince'', "Meditation, From Hair", "To A Wild Rose" "Oh, Perfect Love" and the traditional wedding march during processionals.

Miss Harriet Moreland of Portageville was matron of honor. She wore a mint green jersey dress with scooped neckline, sheered bodice, butterfly sleeves and softly gathered skirt. The dress featured a set- in band at the midriff and was belted in the back. She wore a sheer hair braid hat with silk flower brim and carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Christie Broughton of New Madrid, cousin of the bride, and Debbie Dawson of Portageville. They wore yellow dresses identical to the matron of honor's gown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a polyester sheer organza with Venise lace. The high neck and bodice had a sheer yoke over angel mist taffeta and was accented with Venise rose motifs. Daisies outlined the neck, yoke and bodice of the formal gown. The long, sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed and featured Venise daisy lave trim. An A-line skirt fell to a chapel length train and was appliqued with rose motif and daisy Venise lace.

The bride's elbow- length mantilla was edged in daisy Venise lace. She carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, white pixie carnations, baby's breath, stephanotis and white and yellow satin ribbons.

The bride's father wore a black suit with white shirt and a white carnation boutonniere.

Larry Bond of Portageville served as best man. He wore a black tuxedo with mint green shirt trimmed in green and a daisy tipped in green for his boutonniere.

Danny Burton and Rick Nove were groomsmen and were attired in black tuxedos with yellow shirts trimmed in black. They wore yellow daisy boutonnieres.

Ushers were Stowell Joseph Hobbs of Portageville, brother of the bride, and Doug Lindley of St. Louis, brother of the groom.

George DeLisle and Gregory Fields served mass.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow polyester knit dress with full bishop sleeves and a mandarin collar and a raised waistline accented the gathered A-line skirt. The collar and waistline were accented with pearl beading. The groom's mother wore a soft apricot double- knit dress. The floor- length gown featured long sleeves and a pleated skirt. Embroidery work adorned with beads accented the band at the waist. Both mothers wore corsage of white gardenias.

Following the mass, the couple walked to the Blessed Mother altar and placed a bouquet of majestic daisies tied with yellow ribbon upon the altar. They paused there for a short time of prayer.

HEARING TESTS SET FOR DEXTER AREA

Free electronic hearingtests will be given by Beltone Hearing Aid Center Consultants on Tuesday July 30 at the Hickory House Motel, Dexter, Mo.

Factory- trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Hickory House Motel Tuesday, July 30 from 10:00 a.m. til 7:00 p.m. to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The free hearing tests will be given at the Hickory House Motel Tuesday, July 30. If you can't get there on Tuesday, call number below and arrange for an appointment at another time.

July 29, 1954

Mrs. Ruth Schaffer, 511 Hart street, has received word that her husband, John W. Schaffer is expected to arrive home from Korea on August 4. He has been serving overseas with the Army for over a year.

Janie Reeves celebrated her 10th birthday Wednesday at a party given by her grandmother, Mrs. Green Morrison, at the home of Janie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reeves.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Charleston at the St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Landers are parents of a daughter born Wednesday at the Delta Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Denman of Gladewater, Tex., are parents of a son, their first child, born Saturday in a Gladewater hospital. Mrs. Denman is the former Miss Mary Ellen Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Watson, formerly of Sikeston, now of Gladewater. Mr. Denman just recently received his discharge from the Armed Forces.

Benton -- Mrs. Levi S. Brock, 74, a lifelong resident of the community, died Wednesday in a Cape Girardeau hospital.

Gasoline theft foiled

GRAY RIDGE — Thieves attempting to steal gasoline at the Gray Ridge school bus garage apparently were frightened away Friday night before the arrival of Stoddard County sheriff's deputies.

Pearl Peters, who lives near the garage, called the sheriff's department and reported a burglary was in process. Peters then went to the garage and must have been seen by the thieves who fled.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said windows were broken in the garage, and a gas can and hose were discovered.

Wrong address given

Paul Brown, whose case of driving while intoxicated was continued Thursday in City Court, lives at 118 W. Kathleen Ave., not 304 Jarvis St., as reported in Saturday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Police said today Brown apparently gave them the wrong address when arrested.

Fallen line ignites grass

A power line fell about 12:50 p.m. Saturday in the 300 block of East Murray Lane, setting fire to grass along the roadside, but firemen confined the fire to a narrow strip.

At 9:26 p.m. Saturday, firemen were called to Cardinal Drive when a car belonging to Leonard Cantrell caught fire.

Firemen said the fire was caused by a carburetor backfire and that there was no damage.

Camel's Origin

The camel family had its start in North America about 40 million years ago. The family spread to Asia by an intercontinental land bridge that existed in prehistoric times.

First Rays

On the first day of spring, the rays of the sun first fall on the continental United States atop 5,267-foot Mount Katahdin. The peak in Maine is the northern end of the famous 2,015-mile wilderness footpath.

Fish, chicken supper set in Perkins

PERKINS — The Perkins volunteer fire department has scheduled its fifth annual fish and chicken supper for Saturday. Serving will begin at 4 p.m.

A ticket will entitle the holder to all he can eat, and door prizes will be given away every 30 minutes.

An auction is planned at 8:30 p.m. and a riding lawn mower, ice chest and radio will be given away at 9 p.m.

Music will be provided by Jim Wiley and the Rebels.

Sheriff, deputy attend meeting

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis and Deputy Bud Jones have returned from a Missouri Sheriff's Association meeting held Friday through Sunday in Jefferson City.

Jones said the meeting featured speakers and discussions on problems facing sheriff's offices throughout the state.

Advance store catches fire

ADVANCE — Firemen from four area towns battled a blaze Saturday night which broke out in Stone's Shoe Store in downtown Advance and threatened to destroy a portion of the business district.

Dexter Fire Chief Al Banken said today Dexter, Bloomfield and Perkins fire departments were called to assist Advance firemen in fighting the blaze which was contained to the shoe store. Only water and roof damage was sustained by adjoining buildings. He said the shoe store was destroyed by the fire.

The origin of the fire, which was discovered at 6 p.m., has not been determined. However, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser today said he suspects arson and that the state fire marshal has been contacted to investigate the fire.

Motorcycle thefts being investigated

BLOOMFIELD — Two motorcycles were reported stolen in separate incidents over the weekend, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser.

The cycles were taken from the homes of Richard Carpenter of Dudley and Hugh Burlison of Dexter.

Mouser said there has been an increase of motorcycle thefts lately and that owners should secure their motorcycles with a lock and chain, if possible. If parked unsecured in a driveway or garage, he said thieves can easily back in with a truck and load up the motorcycles.

Bids received on leveee work

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Missouri Rep. 10th District Bill D. Burlison has announced that the Memphis District Corps of Engineers office will receive sealed bids until 2:30 p.m. Aug. 15 for levee work near Commerce, Mo.

The Cape Girardeau Democrat explained that the work will include clearing, grubbing and disposal of debris; shaping of the existing levee embankment; wave wash and scour repairs; fertilizing, seeding and mulching; construction of clay, gravel or crushed stone surfacing; and environment protection.

The estimated value of the proposed construction is set between $100,000 and $500,000.

Burlison said that the project is located along the Mississippi River in Scott County near Commerce. The work will extend downstream approximately seven miles.

miles north of Poplar Bluff on Highway 67 when a trailer being pulled by a car driven by Herbert William Weidenbenner, 28, of Richmond Heights started to weave, causing him to lose control of the car, which overturned.

He and a passenger, James Peters, 30, of St. Louis, were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Two Sikeston residents were critically injured at 3:35 p.m. Sunday two miles north of Sikeston on Highway 61 when their car was struck from behind by a car traveling over 100 miles per hour, driven by Larry Johnson, 21, of St. Louis.

Tonaleah Edwards, 27, and a passenger, Velma Roberts, 42, were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston and tranferred to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Johnson was not injured.

Three persons were critically injured at 2 a.m. Sunday on Highway 21 in Belleview.

The accident occurred when a car driven by James Arthur Marvin, 23, of St. Louis ran into a store building at a high rate of speed.

He and passengers, Teresa Ann Stage, 17, and Mary Shone, 16, of St. Charles received severe head injuries. They were taken to St Marys Hospital in Ironton and transferred to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

A 57- year - old pedestrian was seriously injured at 11 p.m. Sunday on a township road three miles south of Gobler.

The accident hapened when Clarence Wayne Johnson was changing a tire and was struck by an eastbound car driven by Henry Jackson Jr. 26, of Gobler.

He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Two persons received minor injuries at 11:10 p.m. Sunday on a county road 12 miles north of Poplar Bluff.

A patrol spokesman said an eastbound car driven by David John Sindlow, 26, of Poplar Bluff lost control of his car on a curve and struck a tree. A second car driven by David Spencer came upon the car, was unable to stop and struck the Sindlow car.

Sindlow and a passenger, Cindy Sue Hunter, 19, of Poplar Bluff received minor injuries and were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Chaffee state champ

CHAFFEE — Host Chaffee became the Missouri State Jr. Babe Ruth champion Saturday with a 9-6 victory over Sikeston and will advance to regional play at Ottawa, Kansas Aug. 6-10.

Sikeston's thin pitching corp finally turned on them as their ace Larry Jackson had trouble finding the plate in the second inning and some misplayed balls in the outfield allowed four runs to score in the bottom of the second after Sikeston had taken a 1-0 lead in the top half of the inning.

Scott Wachter had an easy time in the first two innings bu the Sikeston bats came alive in the top of the third frame when the visitors scored three times to tie the score at 4-4. With one run in and one on base shortstop Dale Deal put a charge into his 34 ounce bat and clouted his second homerun of the tournament to give Sikeston a tie and new hopes of becoming champions.

Jackson took the mound in the bottom of the inning and once again had trouble getting the ball in the strike zone and Chaffee mixed a couple of base hits in between and scored three runs to take a 7-4 lead which they were never to relinquish.

Sikeston never gave up and battled back in the top of the third to score two times but once again their pitching couldn't do the job. Don Francis, who relieved Jackson in the third inning, gave up another in the bottom of the fourth and one in the sixth. Scott Wachter began to smell the victory and started pumping and Sikeston wasn't able to get back in the game. Wachter took the victory, his third in the tournament. Francis was the losing hurler.

"They have a tremendous team and they had a lot of guts to come all the way back up the losers bracket", commented Chaffee coach Lindon Duncan after the game.

Dale Deal once again was the leading Sikeston hitter with a two- run homer in the second inning over the 340 foot sign. Bill Hampton had two hits including a double.

Lindy Duncan, Scott Whachter, Mark Whitaker and Kevin McGuire banged out two hits apiece for Chaffee.

Sikeston committed five errors in the game and Chaffee committed three. Wachter fanned 11 Sikeston batters.

Chaffee will represent the state of Missouri in the regional tournament at Ottowa, Kansas the first week inAugust.

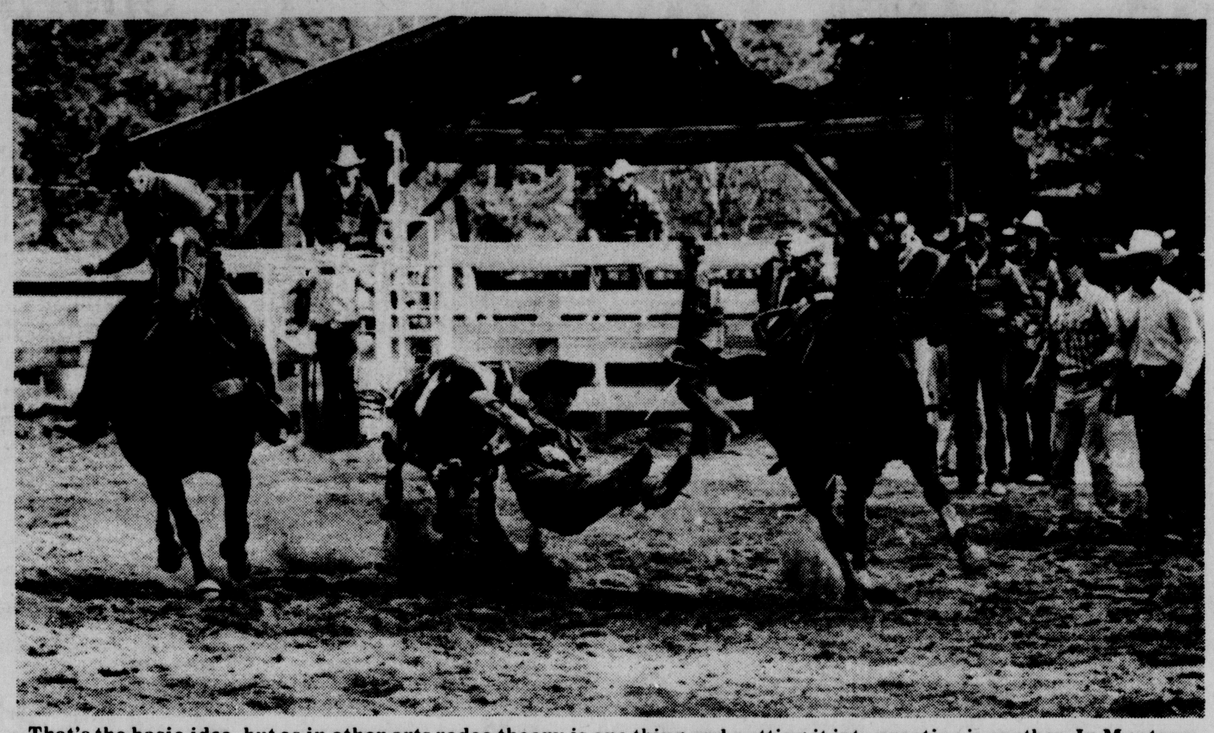
RIDE 'EM COWBOY . . . !



That's the basic idea, but as in other arts rodeo theory is one thing and putting it into practice is another. In Montana, where rodeos are serious business, the practicing can be done at a unique rodeo school. On the rough-and-ready campus at Bigfork on Flathead Lake, the textbooks are prime stock and the majors are in bulldogging, calf roping, barrel racing and the like. Above, a would-be bulldogger learns there is not gentle way to pin a sturdy steer. Lower left, a near miss still means a big letdown. But in the corral where you can get a good grip on the critter, lower right, technique can be perfected.

Sizemore homers for 5-4 Card win

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was a helluva bonus and I'll take it," said St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendiest Sunday of Ted Sizemore's ninth inning homer which provided a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"But I just don't want him to get into the habit of trying for home runs, I like it when he plays the ball around."

Sizemore was accepting congratulations from his teammates with Orlando Pena saying: "Nice going, you get one a year."

"That's the second one this year, honest," said Sizemore. "The other one I hit also was against the Cubs in St. Louis.

"I was really happy to get it," said Sizemore "especially since I had popped up once with the bases loaded and also grounded into a double play."

Sizemore's homer decided a battle which included three- run homers by Ted Simmons of the Cardinals in the top of the sixth and Rick Monday's three- run blast in the bottom of the sixth when both benches emptied onto the field for a near confrontation between Billy Williams of the Cubs and pitcher Sonny Siebert of the Cardinals.

With the Cards ahead 3-1 on Simmons' 13th homer, Williams went sprawling on Siebert's first pitch in the bottom of the sixth. Williams started toward the mound and players from both benches flooded the field. Oder was quickly restored.

The game started out as a battle between Siebert and Cub starter Steve Stone who blanked the Cardinals on two hits in the first five innings.

With two out in the bottom of the fifth, Stone singled and then came all the way home with the game's first run on a double by Bill Madlock. But then Stone gave up singles to Bake McBride and Reggie Smith before Simmons hit his homer.

Missouri has super rack

Gibson, a young Moberly roofer, killed a deer on the last day of the 1970 season which ultimately scored 205, first in the nation during the 1971-73 period and second on the all-time national typical white - tailed deer record list.

All that is known about the first place deer is that the rack was found hanging on a wall in Sandstone, Minn. Because no one jotted down the details of the Minnesota deer (perhaps because no one had a pencil stub), nothing is known about it.

It measures 206-5/8 points on the complicated Boone and Crockett scoring system, all right-- but was it killed by a hunter or was it a skull picked up by someone? Or was it hit by a car or a train?

Gibson's deer measured 205 Boone and Crockett points which puts him firmly in second place. The National Rifle Assn., which now is administering the Boone and Crocket program, has decided to list Gibson's deer as the largest typical white-tailed deer ever taken by a known hunter.

There yet is hope that Gibson can become No. 1. He says he was weaponless when he confronted a buck larger than the record racked animal at a distance of 10 yards.

Missouri has dominated the typical white- tailed deer competition for the past six years. In 1969, Jeff Brunk took a 13- point buck in Clark County which scored 199-4/8 Boone and Crockett points -- tops in the nation 1968-70.

In addition to big deer, Missour leads in big deer club activities. The Show Me Big Bucks Club, founded in 1968, is the most active club of its type in the nation.

The club now has 229 members and it isn't easy to join -- in order to qualify, a hunter's trophy rack must pass minimum standards of scoring by the Boone and Crockett method.

Typcal racks taken north of the Missouri River must score 150 or better, racks taken south of the river 140 or better. For non-typical racks, the scoring is 170 north and 160 south. Nutrition is better in the agricultural north and deer tend to be larger than their Ozark counterparts.

So far this year, Dean Murphy, secretary - treasurer of the Big Bucks Club and assistant Wildlife Division chief for the Department of Conservation, and official club scorers, including deer biologists Wayne Porath and Ollie Togerson, have measured nearly 100 racks.

About 30 have qualified for membership in the Big Bucks Club. Members will gather in early October at a banquet to bestow awards and exchange hunting stories.

Top scorers from the 1973 deer season to date have been 175 for typical (12th on the Big Bucks list) and 201 for non-typical (sixth on the list).

The deer rack Larry Gibson of Moberly took during the 1970 deer season in Missouri is rated second on the all-time national deer record list by the Boone and Crockett program. Number one is a mysterious set of antlers found hanging on a Minnesota wall.

Pheasant Facts

Nearly five million citizens think Missouri is a fine place to live, but try to convince an ornery bird of it!

Missouri has been looking for a pheasant strain that will adapt to and thrive in Missouri for years and, as far as the birds themselves are concerned, the verdict still isn't in.

Glenn Chambers, Department of Conservation pheasant biologist, has been working with the kinky creatures for about 10 years, trying combinations of species and stocking techniques. Eight experimental releases were made and five have shown some potential.

Missouri has limited pheasant hunting for rinknecks established in the northwest part of the state. But, even though the ringnecks have spread their range south and east, the spread will never be statewide. They will avoid forests.

Over the years, there have been a number of other pheasant species stocked. Most vanished. In the five remaining stocking sites with potential the spring crowing cock count is stable. In fact, 1974 surveys show no significant change from 1973.

Malta Bend has the highest number of crowing cocks heard by observers per mile -- 12.0 in 1974 as compared to 12.3 in 1973. This was a saturation stocking, a more than 4,000 Korean pheasants released, and is the most recent stocking.

Bernie, in the Bootheel, showed a crowing cock count of three calls per one mile stop in 1974, compared to 3.5 in 1973 -- again, no significant change. The same was true at Lamonte on the western prairie where the count was .9 this year, .6 last, and at Centralia where it was 3.4 this year, 4.4 last year.

A stocking at Clarence remained the same at 2.1 cocks heard crowing per mile.

For comparison, the count on established ringneck pheasants in Atchison County, Missouri's highest population pheasant county, is 22 calls per stop.

But other counties where pheasant hunting is open have had counts of about three birds. "I'm somewhat optimistic about the releases," says Chambers. "But, we're cautious!"

Missouri is in the wait-and - see phase of its experimental release program for pheasants. The stockings have been made and it now is up to the birds. In addition, there is the established population of ringnecks in northwest Missouri.

NFL strike in 29th day

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new referee in the 29day old National Football League Players Association strike, and before the conflicting parties start talking to each other, they'll be talking to him.

In the first step toward renewing collective bargaining Tuesday, W.J. Usery, the nation's top mediator, asked that the NFLPA meet with him at 4 p.m. EDT today at his federal office in Washington.

He requested a session with Theodore Kheel, chief counsel for the 26 team owners, Tuesday morning and then acrossthe-table bargaining between negotiators for the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council Tuesday afternoon.

If Usery's efforts are successful, it will be the first meeting of the warring parties since talks collapsed last Monday after owners walked out the day before.

"A continuation of this conflict can only bring hardships to the parties directly involved and those caught in the middle ...," Usery said in a telegram to both sides Friday.

He also asked both sides to come to his office "fully prepared to enter into good faith collective bargaining, with the expectation of reaching a fair and equitable agreement."

"We said all along all we want is an agreement," a spokeman for the owners said Sunday night. "I've seen in the press that the union says they're modifying their demands. I hope so. Up to now, the union hasn't abandoned any of its original demands, but if there is a modification—it's a good sign."

Contract negotiations began March 16 when veteran players submitted 90 demands, later condensed to 63. After 10 fruitless sessions, talks broke off and the 1,200-member NFLPA struck July 1, picketing training camps as they opened for rookies and free agents.

Owners say they subsequently have sweetened their offer by $4 million, but the players are seeking more freedom from the owners—which the owners have refused to yield.

The strike forced cancellation of the All-Star game earlier this month in Chicago between the best in the college ranks and the NFL champion Miami Dolphins. And only three veterans were available for the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday between the Buffalo Bills and St. Louis Cardinals.

The NFL Management Council said that as of Sunday night 209 veterans—57 of whom were starters last year—had reported to their teams, leaving about 1,000 members of the NFLPA still to be appeased.

The most notable crossovers Sunday were quarterback Craig Morton and wide receiver Golden Richards of the Dallas Cowboys; quarterback Ken Anderson, and recievers Chip Myers and Bruce Coslet of the Cincinnati Bengals; quarterback Pat Sullivan of the Atlanta Falcons, and linebacker Bill Bergey of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Dale Deal strolls around the bases at Harmon field in Chaffee Saturday afternoon after connecting for a 340 foot home run. His efforts were futile however, as Chaffee claimed the Jr. Babe Ruth state title with a 9-6 win. The homer was Deal's second of the tournament.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, July 29, the 210th day of 1974. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1920, air mail service opened between New York and San Francisco.

On this date:

In 1729, Carolina became a royal province of England.

In 1883, the Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini, was born in Dovia, Italy.

In 1914, a phone conversation between New York and San Francisco marked the beginning of transcontinental telephone service.

In 1940, in World War II, German's all-out air blitz against Britain began.

In 1959, Hawaii held its first election as a state and elected the first Orientals to be seated in the U.S. Congress.

In 1967, 134 American sailors died in a fire aboard the aircraft carrier, Forrestal, off North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: U.N. Secretary General U Thant met with Soviet leaders in Moscow, and the talks centered on U.N. financial problems, conflict in Southeast Asia and disarmament.

Five years ago: The U.S. Mariner spacecraft sent back pictures of Mars that gave man his best views to date of the planet.

One year ago: Voters in Greece endorsed the decisions by their leaders to abolish the Greek monarchy and install George Papadopoulos as President.

Today's birthdays: Writer Owen Lasttimore is 74 years old. Dancer and choreographer Paul Taylor is 44.

Thought for today: I don't know who my grandfather was; I am much more concerned to know what his grandson will be—President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Behold, I make all things new." (Revelation 21:5)

PRAYER: Help us, our Father, to grow daily in faith and Christian experience and let our lives stand as witnesses for Thee in our chosen field of endeavor. Be Thou near us throughout our lives as we feast on our daily bread. Amen

Announcing the Bank of Sikeston's

SUPER SERVICE

Now, a super package of personal banking services. And with no minimum balance required.

The Bank of Sikeston's Super S Service is a new, sensible approach to personal banking. Super Service is designed to eliminate the separate charges you are now paying your bank for many important services. Instead, for one single fee of only $3.00 a month you'll receive most every banking service you're likely to need, plus extra benefits, too. There is absolutely no other charge. Your Super Service includes . . .

Free Personalized Checks. That's right. FREE personalized checks and deposit slips . . . as many as you need. Your name, address and account number printed on every one.

No Monthly Service Charge. Now you can write all the checks you want and not have to worry about cost.

Free Cashiers Checks. Cashiers checks issued without fee to Super Service members.

Free Travelers Check. You get all the travelers checks you need for trips without having to pay any issue charges.

20% Discount on National Car Rentals. Good on regular published time and mileage rates in U.S.A. This discount is in lieu of any special rates and all other discounts.

Quarterly Newsletter. Your newsletter will contain information on the activities of Super Service, plus local and national benefits.

50% Off a Safe Deposit Box. Depending on availability.

Notary Service. Provided at no additional charge to members.

$10,000 Accidental Death/Dismemberment Coverage. ★Every member gets $10,000 accidental death / dismemberment coverage . . . 24-hour, worldwide protection . . . including coverage for loss of eyesight or limbs. Reduced coverage past age 65. *Underwritten by the American Home Assurance Company.

Free Savings Account. For any newborn child or grandchild we will open a $5.00 Savings account; for twins, a $50.00 Savings account; for triplets, a $500.00 Savings account.

Automatic Savings Plan. Just tell us how much you want to save each month and we'll automatically make the transfers from your checking account to your savings account.

Postage Paid Bank-By-Mail. You can use our efficient, bank-by-mail service. We pay postage both ways.

Up to 50% Discount on Over 40 Favorite Magazines. Including TV Guide, Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, and many more.

Special Motel Discounts.

Membership Card. Your membership card makes all these services readily available to you. Join now and get banking services plus many other great benefits for a fixed rate of only $3.00 a month. Don't wait. Come by today. Or give us a call.

National Affiliation. Super Service members can take advantage of money-saving discounts with many of the national motel chains, national car rental services, and the Magazine Buyer Service. Members will be notified of additional national discounts through the member newsletter. The Bank of Sikeston's Super Service and "S Set" are affiliated with the New Outlooks Club, a nationally recognized program of bank clubs.

Present and future members of the Bank of Sikeston's "S Set" are automatically eligible for any of the extra benefits offered by Super Service.

Apply for your Super Service membership now! It's easy to save much more than the low one-cost monthly fee!

Bottomland crops survive dry spell

I-55 interchange proposal revived

A proposal for an interchange on Interstate 55 between Sikeston and Benton has been revived, and the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce is pushing for the interchange to be located near the north city limits at Tanner Road.

District 10 Highway Department engineer Lionel Murray said the interchange has been proposed two or three times previously, and each time the proposal died.

The stretch between Sikeston and Benton is reportedly one of the longest in the state without an interchange. If a northbound motorist misses the Sikeston exit at Highway 62 East, he has to drive to Benton to turn around.

Murray said his office has submitted three locations for an interchange, one at Route U near Blodgett, one at Route H, where an overpass already exits, and one at Tanner Road.

Murray said the Route H location would probably be the least expensive because of the existing overpass.

However, from Sikeston's standpoint, the Tanner Road location would be the best, he said, and it is the Tanner Road location the Chamber of Commerce is pushing for.

Charles Mitchell, a Sikeston realtor responsible for reviving the project, said the interchange is needed to alleviate the heavy traffic on Malone Avenue, which has now reached 25,000 cars a day, according to a recent count.

A reduction in traffic could cut the number of accidents on Malone Avenue, he said.

The intercahnge would help people living on the north end of town who now drive to Benton to get on I-55 to avoid the traffic on Malone Avenue.

The interchange would also open a large area north of Sikeston and Miner to residential and industrial development.

An interchange would benefit the whole Sikeston-miner area, Mitchell said.

The final location, if approved, will be determined by a benefit- cost ratio, Murray said.

Final approval for the overpass, if it involves federal funds, must come from the federal government, and Murray said he thought it would take considerable convincing to get Washington to approve the project.

Those pushing for the interchange are aware of the government's reluctance to approve the intercahnge and are busy lining up considerable support fo the project.

Mitchell said letters of support are being requested from the Scott County Court, the county special road district, the Sikeston City Council and Miner Board of Trustees, Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, Sikeston R-6 School District Board of Education and other interested parties.

Mitchell said he has already received letters of support from 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison and Sen. Stuart Symington. He said he is certain Sen. Thomas Eagleton will also endorse the project.

The project is being coordinated through the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce which last week passed a resolution supporting the project.

Bill Wellborn, the chamber's executive vice president, said everyone interested in the project should let the state highway commission know their views.

2 killed, 19 hurt in SeMo traffic

A young Catron bicyclist and a Doniphan man were killed in area traffic accidents Sunday to bring the number of persons killed in Southeast Missouri to 62 so far this year, compared with 71 traffic deaths reported at this same time last year.

The highway patrol reported 19 persons were injured including two Sikeston residents in nine other traffic accidents over the weekend.

Melvin Johnson, 13, was killed at 10:20 a.m. three-tenths of a mile west of Catron on Route D when his bicycle was struck by a car driven by Anna Hight, 56, of Malden.

The accident occurred when the youth, riding in the middle of the road, glanced back at the car and then drove to the left lane. Mrs. Hight, in an attempt to avoid hitting the bicycle, also drove into the left lane and struck the bicycle. The boy's body was thrown 80 feet from the point of impact.

New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton ruled the accident unavoidable.

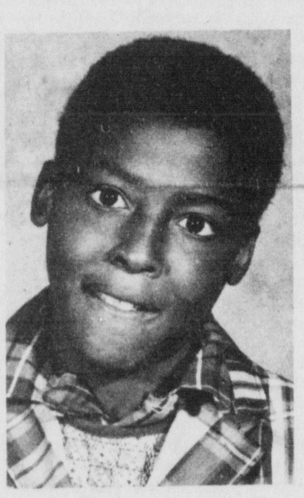
He was born May 30, 1961 in Indianola, Miss. to Rosetta Pratcher of Catron and Willie D. Johnson of Memphis, Tenn.

Other survivors include six brothers, Willie D. Johnson Jr., Hubert Lee Pratcher, Harvey Lee Pratcher, Michael Lee Pratcher, Jamie Lee Pratcher and Jackie Aaron Lee Pratcher of the home; one sister, Cynthia Short of Indianola; stepfather, Aaron Pratcher; Maternal grandfather, Jerry D. Short of Chicago, Ill.; maternal grandmother, Pankie Short of Indianola and paternal grandmother, Lee Johnson of Indianola.



Melvin Johnson

Friends may call at Ponder Funeral Home in Lilbourn from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Catron Methodist Church.

Burial will be in Simmons Park Cemetery at Catron.

Donald Ray Emmons, 22, of Doniphan Route Two, was dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital following a one- car accident at 1 a.m. Sunday three miles north of Doniphan on Route Y.

Passengers Dennis Ray Trotter, 22, and Danny Trotter, 4, of Doniphan received minor injuries and were taken to Doctors Hospital.

A patrol spokesman said Emmons' southbound car ran off the road on a curve and overturned.

Four persons received minor injuries at 2:30 a.m. Saturday in Marston when Donna J. Wren, 14, of Marston lost control of her eastbound car, which ran off the road and struck a tree.

Miss Wren and passengers Debbie Ann Edgin, 12, of Marson, Vivian Lawrence, 17, of Parma and Sandra Dodson, 17, of Marston were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

An accident at 1:15 a.m. on Saturday on Highway 51 near the Mississippi River Bridge, two miles south of Chester, Ill., resulted in two injuries.

Two Phoenix, Ill. residents received minor injuries at 11:50 p.m. Saturday two miles south of Steele on Highway 61 when their car ran off the right side of the road and overturned in a ditch.

Roy Davis, 21, driver of the car, and a passenger, Patricia Madden, 19, were taken to Chicasawba Hospital in Blytheville, Ark.

Floyd Belcher, 32, of St. Louis was seriously injured at 1:45 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Highways 67 and 34 four miles north of Greenville.

Belcher was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Two persons were injured at 12:02 p.m. Sunday 15

5 arrested in Hayti robbery

Five Milwaukee, Wis., residents were arrested by highway patrol officers Sunday at the Interstate 55 - Highway 60 interchange a short time after a group matching their description robbed a Hayti service station.

The five allegedly robbed Whitener's Phillips 66 Service Station of an undetermined amount of cash at gunpoint shortly before 9 a.m. Sunday. They were arrested at 9:39 a.m. by Trooper Jerry Crismon and Cpl. Mendell Clark.

They reportedly had $200 in their possession but no gun. They were taken to the Sikeston city jail, then turned over to Pemiscot County authorities.

The five were identified as Robert Lee Bobo Jr., 23, Eleanor Cole, 21, Martha Lee Carr, 24, Earl Lee Cannon, 18, and Clarence Freeland Cannon, 25.

Wade Hatcher

Grocery store owner dies of heart attack

Vernon Wade Hatcher, 48, of 328 Helen St., owner and operator of Wade's Food Mart at 800 Warner St., died at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was taken after suffering an apparent heart attack at his home.

Born April 15, 1926 at Marmaduke, Ark., he was the son of Mrs. Lorene Pickins Thompson of Fresno, Calif., and the late Joe Hatcher.

Hatcher had been in the meat and grocery business for 24 years and was a meat department manager for Liberty Super Market in Sikeston for 10 years.

He was a charter member of Sikeston Elks Lodge No. 2319.

On Sept. 4, 1960, he married Elva Justice Hatcher, who survives.

The Hatchers had lived in Sikeston since moving in October 1961 from Kennett.

In addition to his mother and widow, he is survived by two sons, Stephen Hatcher of the home and Kenny Hatcher of Grover City, Calif.; two daughters, Darleen Hatcher of the home and Mrs. Peggy Sisk of Visalia, Calif.; three brothers, O.V. Hatcher of Olympia, Wash., Bill Hatcher of Fresno, Calif., and Robert Hatcher of Tenino, Wash.; one sister, Mrs. Wilma Andrews of Chowchilla, Calif.; and three grandsons.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Welsh Funeral Home, where funeral arrangments are incomplete.

Rep. Fred Copeland seeks renomination

NEW MADRID — State Rep. Fred E. "Gene" Copeland of New Madrid announces his candidacy for renomination in the Aug. 6 Democratic primary election.

Copeland had served in the Missouri House of Representatives since 1960.

He has served on several key committees including Constitutional Amendments, Economics, Miscellaneous Resolutions and, during the recent 77 General Assembly, Copeland served on the Appropriations Committee and was chairman of several Appropriations subcommittees, such as agriculture and studies pertaining to the universities.

He also has served several terms as chairman of the Committee on Banks and Financial Institutions. As chairman of this committee, Copeland was active in passing a bill restraining large holding companies in the state's banking industries while still allowing economic growth in that field.

During the 77th General Assembly, Copeland was one of the original sponsors of campaign reform laws. Another House bill which Copeland sponsored would provide special educational programs in all school districts for developmentally handicapped and gifted children.

A measure to invest funds from old age and survivors insurance contributions in accounts for not more than 90 days with the interest paid into general revenue by the state treasurer also was sponsored by Copeland.

Other bills introduced by Copeland included HB 1112 to provide a retirement or savings plan for public employes.

House Bill 1517 was one of Copeland's top priority concerns. It provided that all commercial vehicles and trailers be registered either on a calendar year basis or on a pro-rated basis. This legislation was introduced to counteract a ruling by the attorney general which penalized farm vehicle owners who operated seasonal equipment. The Copeland bill would have provided quarterly licensing which had been permitted previous to the opinion issued by the attorney general.

Fred 'Gene' Copeland

Copeland stated, "With the tight schedule I attempted to introduce only legislation which would provide a definite service or give better benefits to the people of Missouri. I have always been especially interested in legislation which will improve the areas of mental health and aging. I co-sponsored several such bills."

Copeland also was co-sponsor of a measure to eliminate sales tax on interest or finance charges which would have been a tax on a tax.

Rep. Copeland will be running for his eighth term from the 161st District, which includes New Madrid County and parts of Dunklin and Mississippi counties.

Thieves busy again

Four thefts were reported to police over the weekend, including two thefts at the Jaycee Swimming Pool on Taylor Street.

Two coin machines were broken open at the pool Friday night or Saturday morning. Police said a candy machine and a pinball machine were broken. Unsuccessful attempts were made to open two other machines.

Police said the amount of money taken was not determined.

Mike Evans, 101 Adams St., told police that $5.90 was taken from his clothing basket while he was swimming at the pool.

Two tires valued at $35 each were taken from a truck parked at Riley Sunoco Service Station, 2111 E. Malone Ave., between 11 p.m. Saturday and 10:17 a.m. Sunday.

A roll of nickles was taken from the East Shell station, 1101 E. Malone Ave., between 10 p.m. Friday and 6:50 a.m. Saturday. Police said the thieves apparently got into the building by breaking glass in a door. The roll of nickles was valued at $2.

Police said an echo chamber reported stolen Friday by Lynn Casey, 1811 Indiana St., had only been borrowed by a friend.

City accident hurts 5

Five persons were injured in a two- car accident at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the corner of East Malone Avenue and Mitchell Street.

Police said a car driven byHerbert Lynn Hasty, 18, of Bertrand Route One was westbound on Malone Avenue and attempted a left turn at A & W Root Beer Drive In, 1817 E. Malone, and was struck in the side by a car driven east by Louis Van Montjoy, 21, of 1108 Maude St.

Police said Hasty apparently could not see the Mongjoy car because a truck blocked his view.

Treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital were Montjoy, who received multiple bruises, and a passenger in his car, Russell Montjoy, 18, of 1108 Maude St., cuts, bruises and scratches.

Injured in the Hasty car were Davide Williams, 17, of 1502 Washington St., bruises; Steve Dalton 17, of 111 Second St., acute neck pain; and Gerald Dalton, 20, 111 Second St., bruises.

Police said no arrests were made.

Coroner rules suicide in death of Parma woman

PARMA — The body of Pauline Ruth Baker, 42, of Route One was discovered at 9:30 a.m. Saturday dead of a self- inflicted gunshot wound from a .22- caliber rifle, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser.

Mouser said Mrs. Baker's body was discovered by her husband, Buford Baker, who also found a suicide note. The death was investigated by sheriff's deputies and Stoddard County Coroner Ray Rainey of Dexter, who ruled the death a suicide.

Mrs. Baker was born Feb. 10, 1932 at Parma to Esther Richardson Johnson of Dexter and the late Tom Thorpe.

She was a member of the Blodgett Missionary Baptist Church.

On Dec. 17, 1949, she and Buford "Boots" Baker were married.

In addition to her mother and widower, survivors include one daughter, Pauletta Baker of Parma; one brother, Junior Thorpe of Yazoo City, Miss.; and one sister, Thelma Toombs of Parma.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Watkins and Sons Funeral Home at Dexter with the Rev. Marion Gipson officiating.

Burial will be in Hagy Cemetery at Dexter.

Woman catches prowler

PERKINS — Mrs. Leo Schott surprised a prowler at 10 p.m. when she arrived home and saw him cutting the screen off a window of her home.

The prowler jumped a fence and ran into a soybean field when Mrs. Schott left to get her son-in-law, Charles Foulk, who lives nearby.

An encouraging note: Top professional entertainer Glen Campbell opens his road shows with "I Knew Jesus — Before He Was a SuperStar" and closes his show with "Amazing Grace." Who sez all entertainers have to be mean and miserable?

The spy business, apparently, is still flourishing. FBI Director Clarence Kelly says that it has been necessary to shift many FBI agents to counter-espionage duties because of an influx of potential spies from Red China and the Soviet Union.

The U. S. Senate, without naming any specific nation, voted to cut off all American economic and military aid to any country illegally growing and exporting opium. Will that include Red China as well as Turkey? And if we discontinue military aid to Turkey, will that knock Turkey out of NATO? "Simple" problems do not always have easy solutions.

Between July 1970 and July 1973 the Federal government paid out more than $56 million to workers in plants affected by import competition. More than half of 13,000 textile workers who applied for assistance had been employed making cotton fabrics and related products.

On he other hand, between 1967 and 1971 U. S. economic aid, including surplus cotton, to Ghana totaled $113 million. AID financed a $1.3 million subloan to a Ghana textile manufacturer to buy American machinery in 1971. That firm was responsible for most of the 2.5 million yards of gray cloth exported to the U. S. from Ghana in 1972. The amount was about equal to the expanded capacity provided by the subloan, the General Accounting Office reported.

When Congress voted an additional $36.5 million last year to help migrants leave the Soviet Union, provide care for them in facilities in Vienna and transportation to and resettlement costs in Israel, the Senate also voted to increase to $36.5 million the appropriation to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, which is primarily for the benefit of Palestinian Arab refugees. Now, American taxpayers are waiting for another "bill" which will be paid after Henry Kissinger's settlement of peace in the Middle East.

Since banks today sort checks by computer, it's easier now for a forgery to slip through unnoticed. So, if you lose your checkbook, or it is stolen, notify your bank at once and ask that every check written on your account be carefully inspected by a clerk. The bank may advise you to use another signature -- such as J. S. Smith rather than John S. Smith -- or may want to give you a new code number for your checks. In any case, the bank is responsible for any checks it charges to you that you didn't authorize.

'OTHER WAYS' TO DECEIVE

James St. Clair and other spokesmen for President Nixon seek to explain away embarrassing quotations from the presidential tapes by saying the President was acting as "devil's advocate" — exploring in words actions he rejected.

There is a good deal of scenario- spinning in the tapes, much considering of alternatives. But the hush money was paid, and the cover-up went on, the President's men retreating from one untenable position to another to cover up what remained. So this St. Clair argument is not convicing.

The choice of actions President Nixon considered in private with his confidential staff ran the gamut only from A to C — from cover-up to "partial hang-out" — never to the full disclosure he was always talking about in public.

Thus on Mar. 22, 1973, the day the President said his aides should "stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else" if called before the Senate Watergate Committee, President Nixon also said (as St. Clair noted), "on the other hand, uh, uh, I would prefer, as I said to you, that you do it the other way."

The "other way" he was talking about was to get the Senate committee to accept a written report from John Dean in place of calling presidential aides to testify. Dean's report was to give the apperance of being complete and cooperative, but as the President told Dean Mar. 17, "make it very incomplete. See, that is what I mean."

President Nixon preferred this "other way," but he soon knew he could not get the Senate committee to accept it.

There was still another "other way" which H. R. Haldeman suggested Mar. 27, 1973, in a meeting with the President, John Ehrlichman and Ronald Ziegler. Haldeman was looking ahead gloomily to reputations ruined by public charges and possible criminal trials.

"The people who are in charge and are involved are entitled to fair treatment," Haldeman said, and he suggested creating a super panel which would receive confidential information from all the investigative agencies.

Those present in the Executive Office kicked the idea around a bit, but the President thought it was not legal, and they went on to talk of other matters.

Later that same session they returned to the panel idea and talked at length about who should be on it — a mix of legislative - executive - judicial, perhaps, or just two senior judges, or Senators Ervin and Baker of the Watergate Commiteee (among others), or just Judge Sirica alone, or leave it up to the regular grand jury and the courts.

Haldeman: "You can't direct a judge."

President: "No."

The President finally concluded that a special panel would in the end be as bad as the regular courts: "Let's face it. They'll have special prosecutors who will want to make a name for themselves. Everybody wants to make a name for themselves in this (unintelligible). They'll drag it on and on and on ... Let's just say, 'Well, judge, let's go.'"

But first, a presidential television speech to the nation to explain that he wanted to get to the bottom of everything. In practice, the cover-up and stonewalling went on. So another "other way" bit the dust.

WEEKEND MASSACRE

Governor Christopher S. Bond's answer to criticism of his firing of state commission and board members whose terms had not expired and appointing replacements was anything but satisfactory.

The governor, who professes to abhor "politics," has resorted to the most elemental political tactic in calling the critcism "another line of partisan attacks."

And his claim that appointment by him of new boards and commissions was "mandated by the people of Missouri when they voted overwhelmingly for reorganization two years ago" cannot be justified by facts.

Those facts are that apparently no one other than the governor and a few close cohorts knew of Bond's plants to replace commission and board members whose terms had not expired. The legislators who passed the reorganization bill did not know. The fired members did not know.

Had the legislature even had an inkling that Governor Bond planned to flaunt Missouri's time- honored system of staggered term appointments the legislators would have prevented it happening.

Criticism of Bond's action hasn't come, to our knowledge, from people who oppose reorganization. It has come from people who favored reorganization who now fear Bond's action has set back reorganization by what some fear is a power - grab.

We had hoped the action was simply poor judgment of the temper of the people who have seen too much effort in the federal executive branch to seize power -- the action lumped under the catch- all descriptive "Watergate."

Bond's reply indicates he sees no wrong in what he did -- and may still do.

Governor Bond did not help matters when he made these changes in commission and board membership during a long weekend of massive transfers which are a part of reorganization.

He created his own Missouri version of a "Weekend Massacre" to match that of President Nixon's Saturday Night Massacre when he fired Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox and thereby forced the resignation of his attorney general and deputy attorney general.

Governor Bond's has been a fresh, young face. We're afraid he now has egg on that face -- and he put it there himself.

THEY KEEP IT WORKING

With almost monotonous regularity, so- called economic experts give sage advice to consumers on the worth of certain promotion and advertising practices of merchants. In a tweedle- dum, tweedle- dee game of nit-picking considerations, they attempt to balance the advantages and disadvantages of trading at stores that give trading stamps.

In one breath, they state the obvious fact that consumers pay for all forms of promotion. In the next breath, they say something to the effect that sometimes shrewd shoppers, by carefully comparing prices, quality and other factors, can find better deals at stamp - giving establishments -- and vice versa. One and all, they miss the large picture -- the evolution of America's mass production and distribution system which grew on the philosophy of bringing within the reach of everyone the goods and services that only royalty enjoyed in previous eras of human history. This could never have been done except through promotion of new products and services. Advertising and promotion tell people about things and make them want them. When many people want them, they can be produced in volume and sold at prices most people can pay. It is just that simple.

The important fact is that the system works, and fundamentally, advertising and promotion keep it working. Of course, both are an inescapable cost of doing business, but over the long range, they have guaranteed U. S. citizens the biggest consumer bargains in history. Promotion and advertising, functioning in a free market, spell the difference between abundance and the drab austerity of communist China.

GETTING INTO THE "MARKETPLACE OF IDEAS"

Apparently there is going to be no justice for business and for all the good workers who depend upon business for their livelihood, not to mention the necessities of life. If American business collapses by default because of being barred from the "marketplace of ideas," it will be all of us who suffer, including those trying to destroy business and the profit- motive system.

Even if the profit- motive system was as bad as its critics claim, it still remains far better than any other system so far created by human beings. The monopoly TV networks will broadcast far and wide almost any irresponsible attack on our country, our people, our businesses and our essential industries.

The worst unsubstantiated rumors and misinformation by special interest attackers of businesses can be heard beyond the saturation point on the nightly network news, on "documentaries" and on daily and nightly "talk shows."

However, when business, any business, tries to get atoe into the "marketplace of ideas," the door is slammed. Mobil Oil, Gulf, Phillips 66, etc., have tried to get a word in edge wise to help bring a little truth and perspective to the energy problem. The answer usually is: No. The networks largely refuse to recognize or admit to their biased reporting against business; then they refuse business the right even to buy time to correct the record. The public will have to demand fair play for everybody in "the marketplace of ideas," lest we have no marketplace left of any kind. HLH

Voice of the Campus: Where Have All the Flower Children Gone?

What's happened to the counterculture? Where's the violent university youth of yesterday? The young college men and women, just a few years later, appear decades different. They're doing their thing. But what is it?

Here are some answers from the head of one of the world's most famed universities, young in years, younger in heart, a good friend to have even for those who left the campus in goldfish- eating days. This is written exclusively for this column.

By WILLIAM M. McGILL
President,
Columbia University

NEW YORK -- Perhaps the most powerful form of unrest in America during the middle 1960s was the emergence of the so- called counterculture -- a student- led movement of extraordinary power and attractiveness. It had important symbols and a romantic philosophy that soon spread around the world. It rejected all forms of discipline as manifestations of an authoritarian social order seeking to mold young people for the benefit of a political and military oligarchy, but not for humane purposes.

Rapidly emerging counterculture groups on campus instructed their eager members to reject occupational training, to throw off the yoke of traditional religious beliefs and demanding intellectual pursuits, and to do their own thing.

Many students cast aside their middle- class morality and their motivation to advance themselves within the constraints of the social and economic system which generations of their forebears had labored to perfect. They turned, instead, to a pastoral philosophy with great emphasis on the arts and primitive contact with Oriental thought. They dressed in blue work clothes and wore heavy shoes because they saw themselves as sharing the lot of the poor and the oppressed; all this despite soft hands and plenty of money. Students also developed remarkable forms of obscene speech in an effort to identify with the verbal styles of the urban populace. They experimentsed with drugs, searching for transcendental experiences that would free them from what they felt was a drab and oppressive environment.

The movement and its philosophy were a new form of worship of the great god Pan, expressing a unique modern revulsion for America's devotion to progress based upon educational credentials. Students felt a surge of hostility toward the university because of the latter's role in sustaining what they saw as an inhumane technology by purveying its basic credentials.

The counterculture was in its essence a rejection of the disciplinary demands of advanced education. One of the principal effects of the rapid extension of the expected norm of higher education from undergraduate degrees to graduate study, and ultimately to extensive postdoctoral training, is that it seems to have produced a hitherto unseen extension of the period of adolescence in young people. Modern students in a developed society must continue their studies in a competitive educational environment far beyond what was commonplace only two generations ago. They must pursue fragile occupational goals only dimly visible in the future and requiring repeated exposures to the risk of ultimate failure as each new degree level of higher learning is encountered.

One would then expect to see this rejection in societies where the demands of higher education are especially rigorous and where competition makes educational and occupational success seem difficult for even the best students. Such conditions are most closely met in America, Japan and Western Europe. They are not typically encountered in the developing countries. Hence one fascinating observation made during the last ten years in American universities was that visiting students from Southern Asia, Africa and Latin America were carefully following the study habits and neat styles of dress characteristic of earlier generations of American students, while their American counterparts were going about in long hair and work clothers, preferring guitars to libraries.

The counterculture has seemed recently to undergo a pronounced deflation at Columbia. We do not know why this has happened. We have achieved no basic resolution of the deep problems posed by the increasing rigor of education and the prolongation of adolescence that modern forms of higher education seem to enforce in our country.

We have certainly not been able to curtail or eliminate the pyramiding of courses and degrees with all its emphasis on academic credentials as requirements for occupational entry at the professional and managerial levels. Yet, today the Columbia campus is once more filled with earnest and serious intellectuals seeking admission into medical school, law school, business school, engineering, and journalism. Interest in the traditional graduate academic disciplines has declined recently as declining federal support has made traditional graduate study more costly, and dried up prospects for academic careers. But the drop- out philosophy and the symbolism of the counterculture seem also to have lost the attraction they had for students only a few years ago. That alienation has been replaced by an effort -- so earnest as to be almost deadly -- to conform to the requirements of our society. No one knows what we have done to bring it about.

Perhaps the counterculture was just a student fad, but I am inclined to doubt it. The alienation and hostility I perceived, as I dealt directly with student anger for five long years, was too real, too menacing, to be a trendy pose. Perhaps then it was due to the Vietnam War, but that does not explain the powerful alienation of young people in countries such as modern Japan where politeness in social interchange has reached a level of perfection unmatched elsewhere in the world.

The diminished attractiveness of the counterculture for American students seems to reflect their ambivalence in the face of the ambiguities that must confront students in an advanced society. Counterculture devotees who turned to drugs in search of liberating experiences were destroyed by their liberation and that fact has not been lost upon a new generation of students. Those who went off into communes searching for the humanity and strength which allegiance to the land gives soon found themselves disillusioned by conflicts which have a way of becoming superheated in a cloistered society. They could neither feed themselves nor care for themselves. and in the end they could not get along with one another.

All these stories were brought back to students. It produced first apathy and then a renewed determination to try to find independence through learning and professional training. Now our professional schools are inundated. Literally thousands of our most capable students are being turned away from their hoped- for life's work, inadmissible and frustrated. I repeat, we have solved none of our basic problems.

Our vision of the future of university life in the United States permits no compromise with the standards of academic excellence we have developed since the end of World War II. We have passed beyond the period of bitter unrest in which students demanded that we teach them how to solve our society's social and racial problems without being willing to accept the necessary commitments to academic discipline.

We have learned from the counterculture that universities must never again be used as storage houses for bored young people devoid of interest in the power of discovery and the beauty of scholarship. We must demonstrate to our students and the generations of students who follow them that the things we believe in are worth believing.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

The Greek Picture

WASHINGTON -- We predicted on May 27 that "the military junta now in power in Greece will be toppled before the end of June." We missed the date by only 23 days.

Our prognostication was based upon the observations of experts inside the State Department, Central Intelligence Agency and Pentagon. A confidential May 1974 report to the North Atlantic Assembly, for example, reviewed the Greek situation and offered this conclusion:

"Many observers predict that the most affected classes, supported by senior military officers shocked by the junta's primitive terror tactics, may move into open revolt soon."

In our May column, we warned that a Greek revolt might bring to power hostile forces who could deny the United States the use of its military and intelligence installations in Greece.

As the dust settles in Athens, however, the situation appears less drastic. The new premier, Constantine Karamanlis, has been a friend of the United States. Still, he isn't likely to forget his years in exile in Paris, struggling to obtain the ear of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Karamanlis and other exiled Greek leaders pleaded in vain for U.S. help in restoring democracy in their homeland. But the Nixon Administration preferred to do business with the military junta. Up until the day before Karamanlis was called to Athens, our sources say, high- level State Department officials snickered at the idea he migh return to power.

Karamanlis' relations with the United States, therefore, probably will be restrained and businesslike. If Washington wants to maintain bases there, our sources say, "they will have to pay for the privilege."

Analysts are still wondering how much power the new civilian government in Greece really has. Some predict that the military will keep a wary eye on events to see that they don't get out of hand.

According to our sources, however, the Karamanlis government won't be hobbled by the military. On the contrary, these sources say that a special court will be convened to try the deposed strongman, Gen. Dimitrios Ionnides, and his band of political primitives.

One of those who will feel the ax, our sources predict, will be the Greek ambassador to Washington, Constantine Panayotakos.

Unfortunately, Kissinger ignored appeals to end U.S. cooperation with the Greek junta. At least one confidential document predicted months ago that such action would bring down the military dictatorship, with the United States getting the credit.

If NATO would withhold its cooperation, suggested the document, "not only will the alliance gain enormously in prestige, but from that time the days of the dictatorial regime will be numbered."

But no one in Washington was listening. Now the United States is blamed by many Greek people for keeping the dictatorship in power.

Footnote: There was rejoicing in Washington as well as Athens upon Constantine Karamanlis' return from exile. For years, a small but determined band of antijunta Greeks has lobbied day and night for the restoration of democracy in their homeland. They include journalist Elias Demetracopoulos, Profs. Ted Coulombis and John Nicolopoulos, parliamentarian John Zighdis and Gen. Orestes Vidalis.

TRANSPORTATION TROUBLES: The taxpayers spend $8.1 billion a year for a Transportation Department that is fragmented, wasteful and often misguided.

This is the confidential conclusion of a consulting firm, McKinsey & Co., which has just produced a detailed report for Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar.

The study cost the taxpayers $365,000, but the money will be well spent if Brinegar implements the hundreds of recommendations.

The Transportation Department was created seven years ago from federal agencies handling highways, airways, railways, subways and their social, environmental and cultural impact. Thus, the department touches part of every American's life.

The McKinsey report, though couched in careful enough language to ensure it won't be blackballed for outspokenness, makes clear that the department needs major reform.

"The principal need (is) to improve the way in which the department is managed overall," the report states. The problems extend from Brinegar's office throughout his sprawling, brawling, bureaucratic empire.

For instance, the department has wasted millions on impractical projects such as a personal kittycar transport system in Morgantown, W. Va., an aircushioned passenger train and a superbus that runs on a magnetic rail. But it has failed to provide a proper mix between air, auto, bus and rail service.

The report attributes this failure to lack of "clear- cut rationale" at the top. "There was no sufficiently disciplined process," states the report, "to enable ... the Office of the Secretary ... to evaluate the programs and decide on further action. There is a growing sense of groups working at cross- purposes."

In its dozens of pages of recommendations, the report lays out a primer for writing memos, coordinating programs, monitoring the activities of the farflung agencies and extricating clear decisions from the present mass of red tape.

Exbitionists need professional help

Dear Ann Landers: A friend and I had a frightening experience yesterday. We hope you will print this letter and tell us if we did the right thing. It might also help others who may find themselves in the same situation.

My girl friend and I are both 16. We were walking along a path near a creek. It was a bright sunny day and no one else was around. A young man in his early 20s, I'd guess, was walking toward us on the same path. As he came nearer we could see he wasn't fully clothed. In fact, he was wearing a raincoat and no trousers. His coat was open and he was intentionally exposing himself.

As he passed us he said nothing-- just kept walking. He then started to follow us and tried to make conversation. My friend decided the best thing to do was tell him off. She told him (in plain language) that he must be some kind of nut, that we weren't interested in peep shows and to stop following us or we could call the police.

He didn't say one word, just walked away, rejected like.

Since there seem to be so many lunatics running loose these days, will you say something in your column about how to deal with these people? If I had been alone that man might have tried to rape me. Am I right? Please comment. -- Scary Scene

Dear S.S.: You're wrong. That man is an exhibitionist. These sick people get their jollies by exposing themselves -- and that's as far as they go. Most exhibitionists are passive, timid, often impotent and actually quite harmless.

They should be reported to the police, however. Hopefully they will be picked up and treated for their psychiatric problem.

P.S.: When a college kid does it on the run it's called "streaking," considered a "harmless fad," even "healthy" -- by some, not me. What a difference the setting makes!

Confidential to Parents of an Only Child Who Is Driving Us Crazy: Sounds like you quit when you were losers. That child needs to be evaluated by a physician. He may be hyperkinetic, and such children frequently are helped by medication -- which in turn helps the parents.

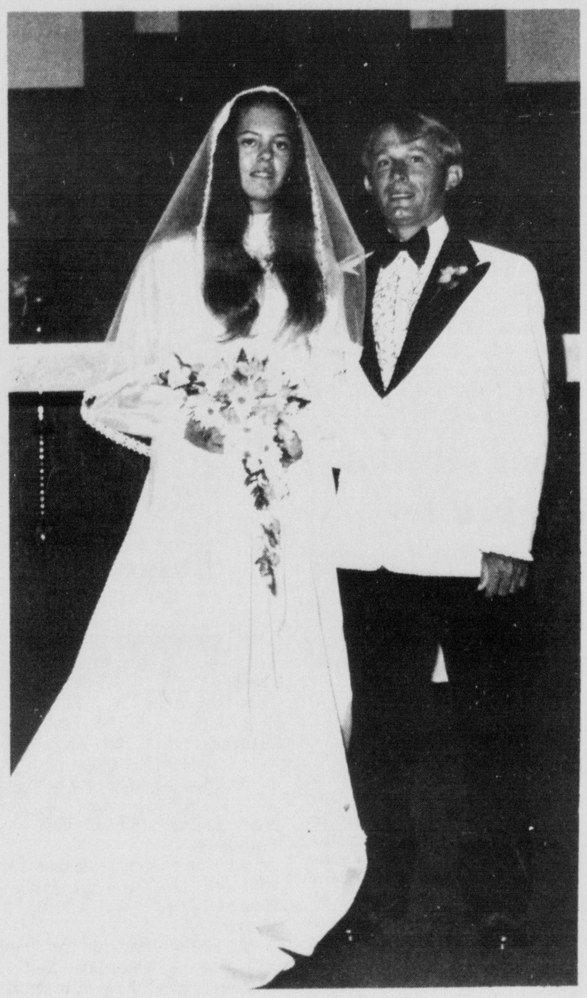
Miss Hobbs and Lindley exchange marriage vows



Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lindley

PORTAGEVILLE — Miss Daisy Hobbs and Jimmy Lindley were united in marriage in a late June wedding at St. Eustachius Parish. The Rev. Amel Shibley officiated at the double- ring ceremony.

Large twin stands of yellow and white majestic daisies, white love doves, baby's breath and natural greenery of huck leather and organ fern with yellow and mint green satin ribbons adorned the altar.

Yellow and white daisies pompoms with baby's breath and leather fern were at St. Joseph's altar.

Two banners, one on each side of the altar, were made of mint green brocade with yellow and white daisies. One was inscribed "Make each day a yes day", and the other read "One God, one world, one life and one love".

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stowell G. Hobbs of Portageville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lindley of Parma.

Pews were marked with candles, enclosed in glass and were accented with white satin bows. Parents' pews were marked with white satin bows.

Before the mass, Mrs. Charles Mitchell of Sikeston, aunt of the bride, sang "Because" and during the mass, she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. J. E. Childress of Sikeston was organist and played "A Time For Us", "More", "Serenade From the Student Prince'', "Meditation, From Hair", "To A Wild Rose" "Oh, Perfect Love" and the traditional wedding march during processionals.

Miss Harriet Moreland of Portageville was matron of honor. She wore a mint green jersey dress with scooped neckline, sheered bodice, butterfly sleeves and softly gathered skirt. The dress featured a set- in band at the midriff and was belted in the back. She wore a sheer hair braid hat with silk flower brim and carried a bouquet of daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Christie Broughton of New Madrid, cousin of the bride, and Debbie Dawson of Portageville. They wore yellow dresses identical to the matron of honor's gown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a polyester sheer organza with Venise lace. The high neck and bodice had a sheer yoke over angel mist taffeta and was accented with Venise rose motifs. Daisies outlined the neck, yoke and bodice of the formal gown. The long, sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed and featured Venise daisy lave trim. An A-line skirt fell to a chapel length train and was appliqued with rose motif and daisy Venise lace.

The bride's elbow- length mantilla was edged in daisy Venise lace. She carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, white pixie carnations, baby's breath, stephanotis and white and yellow satin ribbons.

The bride's father wore a black suit with white shirt and a white carnation boutonniere.

Larry Bond of Portageville served as best man. He wore a black tuxedo with mint green shirt trimmed in green and a daisy tipped in green for his boutonniere.

Danny Burton and Rick Nove were groomsmen and were attired in black tuxedos with yellow shirts trimmed in black. They wore yellow daisy boutonnieres.

Ushers were Stowell Joseph Hobbs of Portageville, brother of the bride, and Doug Lindley of St. Louis, brother of the groom.

George DeLisle and Gregory Fields served mass.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow polyester knit dress with full bishop sleeves and a mandarin collar and a raised waistline accented the gathered A-line skirt. The collar and waistline were accented with pearl beading. The groom's mother wore a soft apricot double- knit dress. The floor- length gown featured long sleeves and a pleated skirt. Embroidery work adorned with beads accented the band at the waist. Both mothers wore corsage of white gardenias.

Following the mass, the couple walked to the Blessed Mother altar and placed a bouquet of majestic daisies tied with yellow ribbon upon the altar. They paused there for a short time of prayer.

County to hold clinic

RISCO — The New Madrid County Health Center, in cooperation with Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, will conduct a well baby clinic in the Farmers State Bank meeting room Aug. 1 from 9 a.m. to noon.

A doctor will be present and all immunizations will be given.

HEARING TESTS SET FOR DEXTER AREA

Free electronic hearingtests will be given by Beltone Hearing Aid Center Consultants on Tuesday July 30 at the Hickory House Motel, Dexter, Mo.

Factory- trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Hickory House Motel Tuesday, July 30 from 10:00 a.m. til 7:00 p.m. to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The free hearing tests will be given at the Hickory House Motel Tuesday, July 30. If you can't get there on Tuesday, call number below and arrange for an appointment at another time.

Farmers harvest watermelon crop

50 years ago
July 29, 1924

Miss Laura Kincy of Dexter is visiting her sister, Mrs. O. E. Latham.

Clarence Scott and brother, Chester Scott of Arkansas motored to Metropolis, Ill., the first of the week.

O. D. Glasburn returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit with homefolks in Sedalia. His wife and children remained for a longer visit.

Mrs. W. L. Wilkinson has returned from a visit with her son, Ora, and wife of St. Louis. Ora and wife are the proud parents of a daughter.

40 years ago
July 29, 1934

Beginning this week Scott County farmers began to haul their crops of watermelons to town. The melons, large and well- shaped, are, in the opinion of one grower, the best seen this year.

Matthews — Miss Clara Bell Canoy, who is teaching at Senath, spent the weekend here the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Story.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Schufferberger, a native of Scott County and a former resident of Oran, who died of paralysis Monday at West Frankfort, Ill., were held Tuesday at Oran.

Morley -- Miss Helen Vera Dudley returned to her home in Sikeston Monday, after spending a week as a guest of Lula Ruth Ragains.

30 years ago
July 29, 1944

Sgt. Charles E. Johnson has received an APO address in San Francisco, Calif. He was formerly stationed at Camp Beale, Calif.

Matthews — Misses Alice and Frankie Deane, who have been attending Teachers College in Cape Girardeau returned home Friday. Miss Frankie will teach here at Matthews and Miss Alice at Gideon for next year.

Oran -- Mrs. Ben Douglas is home from a visit in St. Louis. She was accompanied by her daughter- in- law, Mrs. Clark Douglas and baby.

Our Mrs. Lill Parsons Kendall left Sikeston Saturday for Tucson, Ariz., to join her husband and daughter in that city. She has been connected with The Standard office for many years and we thought of her as another daughter. We'll miss her but wish her health and happiness in her new surroundings.

20 years ago
July 29, 1954

Mrs. Ruth Schaffer, 511 Hart street, has received word that her husband, John W. Schaffer is expected to arrive home from Korea on August 4. He has been serving overseas with the Army for over a year.

Janie Reeves celebrated her 10th birthday Wednesday at a party given by her grandmother, Mrs. Green Morrison, at the home of Janie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reeves.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Charleston at the St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Landers are parents of a daughter born Wednesday at the Delta Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Denman of Gladewater, Tex., are parents of a son, their first child, born Saturday in a Gladewater hospital. Mrs. Denman is the former Miss Mary Ellen Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Watson, formerly of Sikeston, now of Gladewater. Mr. Denman just recently received his discharge from the Armed Forces.

Benton -- Mrs. Levi S. Brock, 74, a lifelong resident of the community, died Wednesday in a Cape Girardeau hospital.

Gasoline theft foiled

GRAY RIDGE — Thieves attempting to steal gasoline at the Gray Ridge school bus garage apparently were frightened away Friday night before the arrival of Stoddard County sheriff's deputies.

Pearl Peters, who lives near the garage, called the sheriff's department and reported a burglary was in process. Peters then went to the garage and must have been seen by the thieves who fled.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said windows were broken in the garage, and a gas can and hose were discovered.

Wrong address given

Paul Brown, whose case of driving while intoxicated was continued Thursday in City Court, lives at 118 W. Kathleen Ave., not 304 Jarvis St., as reported in Saturday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Police said today Brown apparently gave them the wrong address when arrested.

First Rays

On the first day of spring, the rays of the sun first fall on the continental United States atop 5,267-foot Mount Katahdin. The peak in Maine is the northern end of the famous 2,015-mile wilderness footpath.

Fallen line ignites grass

A power line fell about 12:50 p.m. Saturday in the 300 block of East Murray Lane, setting fire to grass along the roadside, but firemen confined the fire to a narrow strip.

At 9:26 p.m. Saturday, firemen were called to Cardinal Drive when a car belonging to Leonard Cantrell caught fire.

Firemen said the fire was caused by a carburetor backfire and that there was no damage.

Camel's Origin

The camel family had its start in North America about 40 million years ago. The family spread to Asia by an intercontinental land bridge that existed in prehistoric times.

Advance store catches fire

ADVANCE — Firemen from four area towns battled a blaze Saturday night which broke out in Stone's Shoe Store in downtown Advance and threatened to destroy a portion of the business district.

Dexter Fire Chief Al Banken said today Dexter, Bloomfield and Perkins fire departments were called to assist Advance firemen in fighting the blaze which was contained to the shoe store. Only water and roof damage was sustained by adjoining buildings. He said the shoe store was destroyed by the fire.

The origin of the fire, which was discovered at 6 p.m., has not been determined. However, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser today said he suspects arson and that the state fire marshal has been contacted to investigate the fire.

Motorcycle thefts being investigated

BLOOMFIELD — Two motorcycles were reported stolen in separate incidents over the weekend, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser.

The cycles were taken from the homes of Richard Carpenter of Dudley and Hugh Burlison of Dexter.

Mouser said there has been an increase of motorcycle thefts lately and that owners should secure their motorcycles with a lock and chain, if possible. If parked unsecured in a driveway or garage, he said thieves can easily back in with a truck and load up the motorcycles.

Bids received on leveee work

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Missouri Rep. 10th District Bill D. Burlison has announced that the Memphis District Corps of Engineers office will receive sealed bids until 2:30 p.m. Aug. 15 for levee work near Commerce, Mo.

The Cape Girardeau Democrat explained that the work will include clearing, grubbing and disposal of debris; shaping of the existing levee embankment; wave wash and scour repairs; fertilizing, seeding and mulching; construction of clay, gravel or crushed stone surfacing; and environment protection.

The estimated value of the proposed construction is set between $100,000 and $500,000.

Burlison said that the project is located along the Mississippi River in Scott County near Commerce. The work will extend downstream approximately seven miles.

Chaffee state champ

CHAFFEE — Host Chaffee became the Missouri State Jr. Babe Ruth champion Saturday with a 9-6 victory over Sikeston and will advance to regional play at Ottawa, Kansas Aug. 6-10.

Sikeston's thin pitching corp finally turned on them as their ace Larry Jackson had trouble finding the plate in the second inning and some misplayed balls in the outfield allowed four runs to score in the bottom of the second after Sikeston had taken a 1-0 lead in the top half of the inning.

Scott Wachter had an easy time in the first two innings bu the Sikeston bats came alive in the top of the third frame when the visitors scored three times to tie the score at 4-4. With one run in and one on base shortstop Dale Deal put a charge into his 34 ounce bat and clouted his second homerun of the tournament to give Sikeston a tie and new hopes of becoming champions.

Jackson took the mound in the bottom of the inning and once again had trouble getting the ball in the strike zone and Chaffee mixed a couple of base hits in between and scored three runs to take a 7-4 lead which they were never to relinquish.

Sikeston never gave up and battled back in the top of the third to score two times but once again their pitching couldn't do the job. Don Francis, who relieved Jackson in the third inning, gave up another in the bottom of the fourth and one in the sixth. Scott Wachter began to smell the victory and started pumping and Sikeston wasn't able to get back in the game. Wachter took the victory, his third in the tournament. Francis was the losing hurler.

"They have a tremendous team and they had a lot of guts to come all the way back up the losers bracket", commented Chaffee coach Lindon Duncan after the game.

Dale Deal once again was the leading Sikeston hitter with a two- run homer in the second inning over the 340 foot sign. Bill Hampton had two hits including a double.

Lindy Duncan, Scott Whachter, Mark Whitaker and Kevin McGuire banged out two hits apiece for Chaffee.

Sikeston committed five errors in the game and Chaffee committed three. Wachter fanned 11 Sikeston batters.

Chaffee will represent the state of Missouri in the regional tournament at Ottowa, Kansas the first week inAugust.

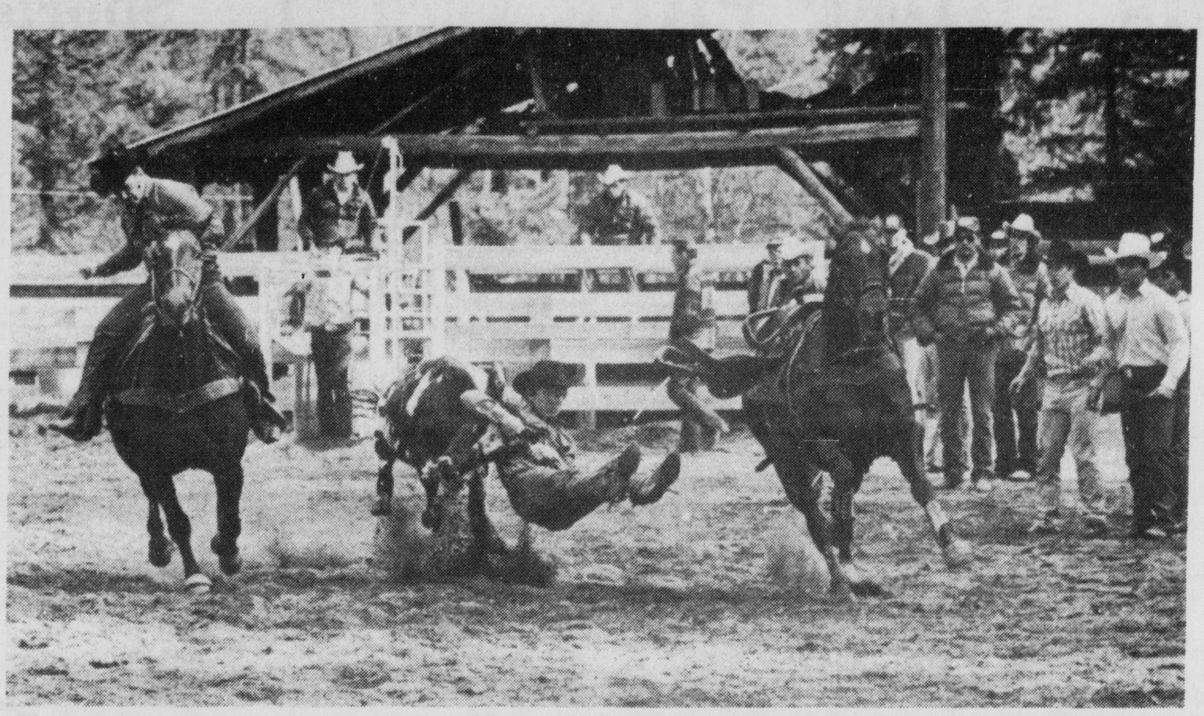
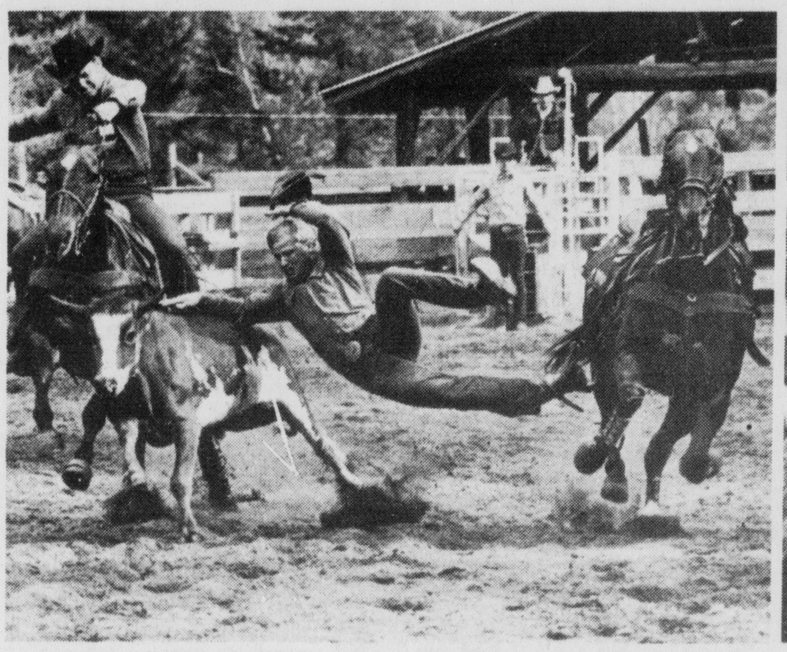
RIDE 'EM COWBOY . . . !



That's the basic idea, but as in other arts rodeo theory is one thing and putting it into practice is another. In Montana, where rodeos are serious business, the practicing can be done at a unique rodeo school. On the rough-and-ready campus at Bigfork on Flathead Lake, the textbooks are prime stock and the majors are in bulldogging, calf roping, barrel racing and the like. Above, a would-be bulldogger learns there is not gentle way to pin a sturdy steer. Lower left, a near miss still means a big letdown. But in the corral where you can get a good grip on the critter, lower right, technique can be perfected.



Sizemore homers for 5-4 Card win

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was a helluva bonus and I'll take it," said St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendiest Sunday of Ted Sizemore's ninth inning homer which provided a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"But I just don't want him to get into the habit of trying for home runs, I like it when he plays the ball around."

"That's the second one this year, honest," said Sizemore. "The other one I hit also was against the Cubs in St. Louis.

"I was really happy to get it," said Sizemore "especially since I had popped up once with the bases loaded and also grounded into a double play."

Sizemore's homer decided a battle which included three- run homers by Ted Simmons of the Cardinals in the top of the sixth and Rick Monday's three- run blast in the bottom of the sixth when both benches emptied onto the field for a near confrontation between Billy Williams of the Cubs and pitcher Sonny Siebert of the Cardinals.

With the Cards ahead 3-1 on Simmons' 13th homer, Williams went sprawling on Siebert's first pitch in the bottom of the sixth. Williams started toward the mound and players from both benches flooded the field. Oder was quickly restored.

The game started out as a battle between Siebert and Cub starter Steve Stone who blanked the Cardinals on two hits in the first five innings.

With two out in the bottom of the fifth, Stone singled and then came all the way home with the game's first run on a double by Bill Madlock. But then Stone gave up singles to Bake McBride and Reggie Smith before Simmons hit his homer.

Missouri has super rack

Gibson, a young Moberly roofer, killed a deer on the last day of the 1970 season which ultimately scored 205, first in the nation during the 1971-73 period and second on the all-time national typical white - tailed deer record list.

All that is known about the first place deer is that the rack was found hanging on a wall in Sandstone, Minn. Because no one jotted down the details of the Minnesota deer (perhaps because no one had a pencil stub), nothing is known about it.

It measures 206-5/8 points on the complicated Boone and Crockett scoring system, all right-- but was it killed by a hunter or was it a skull picked up by someone? Or was it hit by a car or a train?

Gibson's deer measured 205 Boone and Crockett points which puts him firmly in second place. The National Rifle Assn., which now is administering the Boone and Crocket program, has decided to list Gibson's deer as the largest typical white-tailed deer ever taken by a known hunter.

There yet is hope that Gibson can become No. 1. He says he was weaponless when he confronted a buck larger than the record racked animal at a distance of 10 yards.

Missouri has dominated the typical white- tailed deer competition for the past six years. In 1969, Jeff Brunk took a 13- point buck in Clark County which scored 199-4/8 Boone and Crockett points -- tops in the nation 1968-70.

In addition to big deer, Missour leads in big deer club activities. The Show Me Big Bucks Club, founded in 1968, is the most active club of its type in the nation.

The club now has 229 members and it isn't easy to join -- in order to qualify, a hunter's trophy rack must pass minimum standards of scoring by the Boone and Crockett method.

Typcal racks taken north of the Missouri River must score 150 or better, racks taken south of the river 140 or better. For non-typical racks, the scoring is 170 north and 160 south. Nutrition is better in the agricultural north and deer tend to be larger than their Ozark counterparts.

So far this year, Dean Murphy, secretary - treasurer of the Big Bucks Club and assistant Wildlife Division chief for the Department of Conservation, and official club scorers, including deer biologists Wayne Porath and Ollie Togerson, have measured nearly 100 racks.

About 30 have qualified for membership in the Big Bucks Club. Members will gather in early October at a banquet to bestow awards and exchange hunting stories.

Top scorers from the 1973 deer season to date have been 175 for typical (12th on the Big Bucks list) and 201 for non-typical (sixth on the list).

The deer rack Larry Gibson of Moberly took during the 1970 deer season in Missouri is rated second on the all-time national deer record list by the Boone and Crockett program. Number one is a mysterious set of antlers found hanging on a Minnesota wall.

Pheasant Facts

Nearly five million citizens think Missouri is a fine place to live, but try to convince an ornery bird of it!

Missouri has been looking for a pheasant strain that will adapt to and thrive in Missouri for years and, as far as the birds themselves are concerned, the verdict still isn't in.

Glenn Chambers, Department of Conservation pheasant biologist, has been working with the kinky creatures for about 10 years, trying combinations of species and stocking techniques. Eight experimental releases were made and five have shown some potential.

Missouri has limited pheasant hunting for rinknecks established in the northwest part of the state. But, even though the ringnecks have spread their range south and east, the spread will never be statewide. They will avoid forests.

Over the years, there have been a number of other pheasant species stocked. Most vanished. In the five remaining stocking sites with potential the spring crowing cock count is stable. In fact, 1974 surveys show no significant change from 1973.

Malta Bend has the highest number of crowing cocks heard by observers per mile -- 12.0 in 1974 as compared to 12.3 in 1973. This was a saturation stocking, a more than 4,000 Korean pheasants released, and is the most recent stocking.

Bernie, in the Bootheel, showed a crowing cock count of three calls per one mile stop in 1974, compared to 3.5 in 1973 -- again, no significant change. The same was true at Lamonte on the western prairie where the count was .9 this year, .6 last, and at Centralia where it was 3.4 this year, 4.4 last year.

A stocking at Clarence remained the same at 2.1 cocks heard crowing per mile.

For comparison, the count on established ringneck pheasants in Atchison County, Missouri's highest population pheasant county, is 22 calls per stop.

But other counties where pheasant hunting is open have had counts of about three birds. "I'm somewhat optimistic about the releases," says Chambers. "But, we're cautious!"

Missouri is in the wait-and - see phase of its experimental release program for pheasants. The stockings have been made and it now is up to the birds. In addition, there is the established population of ringnecks in northwest Missouri.

NFL strike in 29th day

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new referee in the 29day old National Football League Players Association strike, and before the conflicting parties start talking to each other, they'll be talking to him.

In the first step toward renewing collective bargaining Tuesday, W.J. Usery, the nation's top mediator, asked that the NFLPA meet with him at 4 p.m. EDT today at his federal office in Washington.

He requested a session with Theodore Kheel, chief counsel for the 26 team owners, Tuesday morning and then acrossthe-table bargaining between negotiators for the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council Tuesday afternoon.

If Usery's efforts are successful, it will be the first meeting of the warring parties since talks collapsed last Monday after owners walked out the day before.

"A continuation of this conflict can only bring hardships to the parties directly involved and those caught in the middle ...," Usery said in a telegram to both sides Friday.

He also asked both sides to come to his office "fully prepared to enter into good faith collective bargaining, with the expectation of reaching a fair and equitable agreement."

"We said all along all we want is an agreement," a spokeman for the owners said Sunday night. "I've seen in the press that the union says they're modifying their demands. I hope so. Up to now, the union hasn't abandoned any of its original demands, but if there is a modification—it's a good sign."

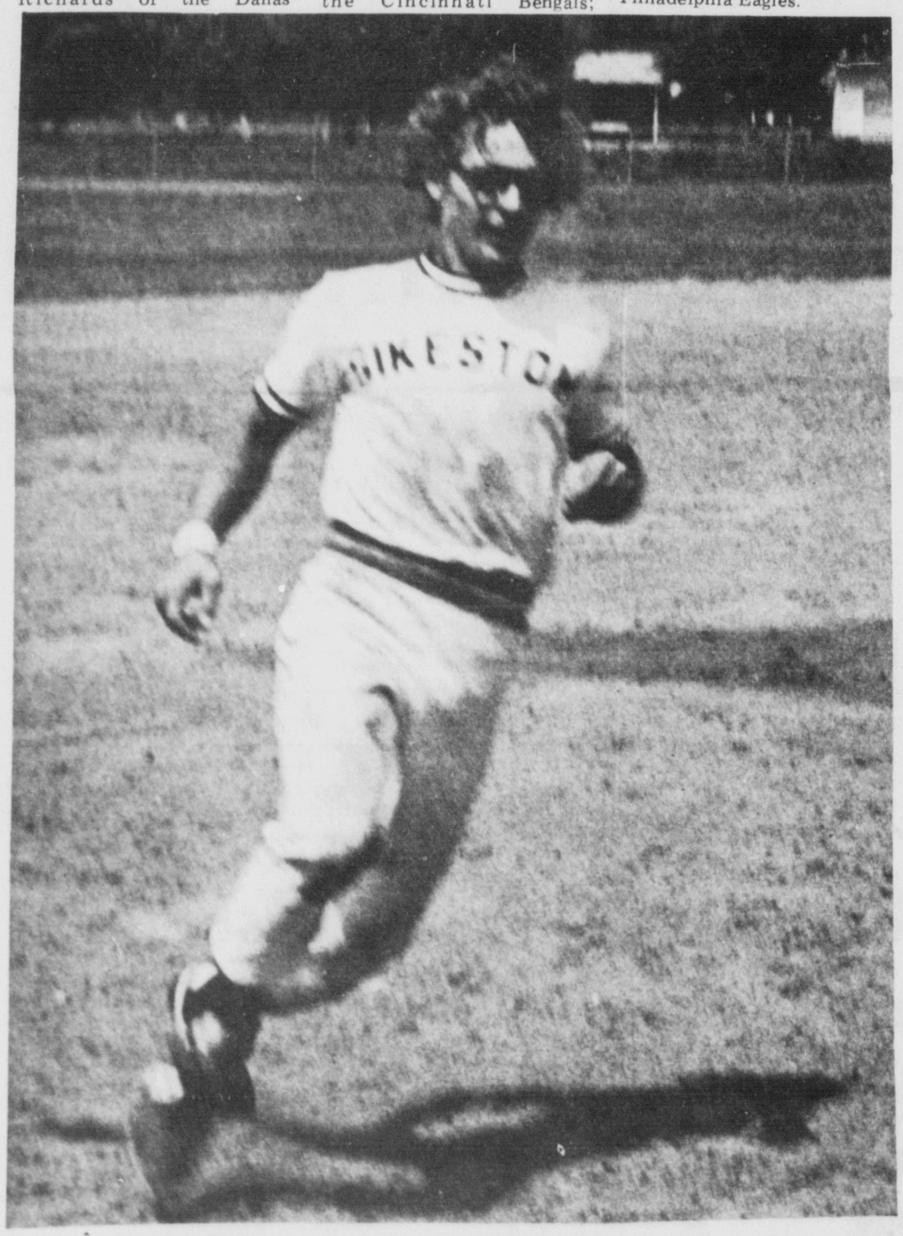
Contract negotiations began March 16 when veteran players submitted 90 demands, later condensed to 63. After 10 fruitless sessions, talks broke off and the 1,200-member NFLPA struck July 1, picketing training camps as they opened for rookies and free agents.

Owners say they subsequently have sweetened their offer by $4 million, but the players are seeking more freedom from the owners—which the owners have refused to yield.

The strike forced cancellation of the All-Star game earlier this month in Chicago between the best in the college ranks and the NFL champion Miami Dolphins. And only three veterans were available for the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday between the Buffalo Bills and St. Louis Cardinals.

The NFL Management Council said that as of Sunday night 209 veterans—57 of whom were starters last year—had reported to their teams, leaving about 1,000 members of the NFLPA still to be appeased.

The most notable crossovers Sunday were quarterback Craig Morton and wide receiver Golden Richards of the Dallas Cowboys; quarterback Ken Anderson, and recievers Chip Myers and Bruce Coslet of the Cincinnati Bengals; quarterback Pat Sullivan of the Atlanta Falcons, and linebacker Bill Bergey of the Philadelphia Eagles.



Dale Deal strolls around the bases at Harmon field in Chaffee Saturday afternoon after connecting for a 340 foot home run. His efforts were futile however, as Chaffee claimed the Jr. Babe Ruth state title with a 9-6 win. The homer was Deal's second of the tournament.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, July 29, the 210th day of 1974. There are 155 davs left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1920, air mail service opened between New York and San Francisco.

On this date:

In 1729, Carolina became a royal province of England.

In 1883, the Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini, was born in Dovia, Italy.

In 1914, a phone conversation between New York and San Francisco marked the beginning of transcontinental telephone service.

In 1940, in World War II, German's all-out air blitz against Britain began.

In 1959, Hawaii held its first election as a state and elected the first Orientals to be seated in the U.S. Congress.

In 1967, 134 American sailors died in a fire aboard the aircraft carrier, Forrestal, off North Vietnam.

Ten years ago: U.N. Secretary General U Thant met with Soviet leaders in Moscow, and the talks centered on U.N. financial problems, conflict in Southeast Asia and disarmament.

Five years ago: The U.S. Mariner spacecraft sent back pictures of Mars that gave man his best views to date of the planet.

One year ago: Voters in Greece endorsed the decisions by their leaders to abolish the Greek monarchy and install George Papadopoulos as President.

Today's birthdays: Writer Owen Lasttimore is 74 years old. Dancer and choreographer Paul Taylor is 44.

Thought for today: I don't know who my grandfather was; I am much more concerned to know what his grandson will be—President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.
